OFFERS TO BE SLAVE

MAN OF FIFTY TO SELL SELF

HAVERHILL, Mass., Aug. 30.—Ardella J. McCoin, a shoe worker here, has offered to sell himself into slavery for $25 a week.

Mrs. McCoin, herself employed in a shoe factory, offered newspapers advertisements setting forth the strange proposal.

The husband, who is fifty years old and in ill health, is out of work. Winter is coming and the McCoins decided in desperation that the sale of the husband as a slave might solve the problem. McCoin has packed shoes for sixteen years. Beyond that he knows no trade, but says he is willing to do anything his strength will allow.

Here is the advertisement Mrs. McCoin submitted to newspapers:

"FOR SALE: A reliable man of good character.

"No, reader, there is no mistake in the above caption. The offer is bona fide and means a good bargain for someone. The days of slavery are over, you say. The days of the slave whose master had the power to sell him are over. The days of the industrial slave who has to find a market for himself will never be over. The negro slave of days gone by many times found he had a hard master but he was sure he would have a place to eat, a place to sleep and at least what clothes the law required. He was never without a master, so he was sure he would never suffer cold and hunger.

"This particular slave of industry at the present time is without a master and unless he finds one who wants to buy a good, honest slave, he may be cold and hungry ere the long New England winter is over. The slave without a master is willing to work at anything a man of middle age is able to do. He is intelligent and he is fairly well educated. His character is above reproach. If you need a slave of this type, now is your chance to obtain a bargain. No reasonable offer will be refused."

Reporters who hurried to the McCoins' neat little cottage found that what they thought was a practical joke was apparently a sincere effort to keep the wolf from the door.

Mrs. McCoin said she earns about $22 a week and declared that is not enough to live on.

In describing his futile efforts to find work, McCoin said he belonged to one union, but that all jobs seemed to go to members of a rival organization.

So far no one has bid for the would-be slave's services.

PONY EXPRESS REVIVAL FRIDAY

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Aug. 30.—Western plains will again witness a speeding horseback rider carrying United States mail.

The "pony express," which added to the tradition of the west nearly three-quarters of a century ago, will be revived for one trip starting here tomorrow.

The modern riders will attempt to beat the old time record in transporting mail by pony from St. Joseph to Sacramento, Cal.

Two opposing teams, one composed of "cowboy" riders and the other of army cavalrymen, will participate in the race. For ten days they will urge their mounts half way across the continent, traversing a total of 2,100 miles. The "pony express" record made by riders in 1860 was seven days and twenty-one hours of actual riding time.

Starting from St. Joseph, the first rider will change horses every ten miles and at the fifty mile point the mail pouches will be handed to fresh riders. On arriving at state lines at night the riders will be halted until daybreak in order to permit them to pass thru large cities during daylight. Two hundred and fifty horses and forty riders will participate in the revival. In the mountainous regions horses will be changed each mile.

Robert Lee Shepherd, a farmer near St. Joseph and an expert horseman, will ride his thorobred, "Beauty," out of St. Joseph, when President Coolidge presses the starting signal button. Shepherd will represent the cowboys and Harold Griffith is scheduled to represent the army contingent.

PERMIT TO YANKTON TOLL BRIDGE SCHEME

Governor Bryan Believes It the Duty of Nebraskans to Buy Stock in Bridge Project.

Governor Bryan has returned from a trip to Yankton, S. D. He accompanied a delegation of Omaha business men to that city to look over the plans for the construction of a bridge across the Missouri river. He expressed surprise at the progress made by construction engineers. He finds that $900,000 has been subscribed by people of South Dakota and Nebraska to the enterprise, mostly in the form of stock subscriptions, and that $600,000 has been expended. The bridge is to be a toll bridge and will have two decks, one for railroad trains and the upper deck for vehicles and foot passengers.

The Nebraska legislature passed a bill authorizing the use of $100,000 from the state aid bridge fund to aid in building an approach to this bridge on the Nebraska side. Governor Bryan signed the bill. Later the legislature appropriated $200,000 for the state aid bridge fund, declining to make the total $300,000 which was the amount asked for by supporters of the Yankton bridge scheme.

Governor Bryan said Thursday he would not authorize the use of $100,000 of state aid bridge funds for an approach to the Yankton bridge, but said he would see that the department of securities issues a permit to sell stock in the bridge to the amount of $100,000 in Nebraska.

"I think it the duty of Nebraskans to buy stock in this bridge," said Governor Bryan. He believes the project of importance to this state. He said Omaha people had subscribed $100,000 for stock. At present a pontoon toll bridge is operating and charging 25 cents for each person who passes over it.

READY TO WELCOME LEGION

HASTINGS POST SENDS OUT PROGRAM OF CONVENTION.

Boxing Bill, Military Ball and Exhibition by Girl Cadets to Feature Department Meeting.

Hastings post of the American Legion has sent out a publication to all Nebraska posts announcing the events of the department convention to be held there September 17, 18 and 19.

Aside from business routine, the program includes a boxing bill on the first night; a grand military ball, a street parade, and drilling exhibition of the Hastings girl cadets on the second day; and competitions of bugle and drum corps on the last day.

Nebraska army nurses are to be the honored guests at the military ball. Department Commander J. Ed. C. Fisher has named the white uniform with cape as the prescribed dress. All men are requested to wear their uniforms at this ball, admittance to the dance floor being given only to those who wear the uniform.

The girls' cadet corps is drilling regularly for the convention. This group is the only one of its kind in the United States. Several bands are to be present. "To the Colors" will be sounded and the whole city and visitors will participate in retreat.

Half a dozen bugle and drum corps will vie with one another to take first place in a composition. The Lincoln bugle and drum corps will be presented.

The 355th infantry will hold a reunion during the convention, while the "Forty Hommes et Eight Chevaux" will have something special for their members.

Following is the personnel of the general arrangements committee:

John A. Lawler, Chairman.
John P. Madgett, secretary.
Vern Manahan, treasurer.
Lawrence E. Jones.

Refused to Leave Wife No. 2.

OMAHA, Aug. 30.—Frank B. Carmony, Missouri Pacific engineer, separated from his second wife in February by a court order, setting aside a divorce decree granted his first wife is held by police under bond on a statuatory charge, filed as the result of his going back to wife No. 2.

The complaint was filed against Carmony by Hubert Schoening, investigator for the county attorney's office.

According to Schoening shortly after the setting aside of the divorce decree, Carmony was called to the county attorney's office and warned that prosecution would follow if he continued to live with the second wife.

Carmony it was alleged, went to Council Bluffs and married Aesteb Kettley a nurse before the six months' period had elapsed following the divorce. This was the grounds on which the divorce was set aside.

STUDIES ON THE MARINE

COOLIDGE TACKLES INVOLVED AND DIFFICULT PROBLEM.

Efforts Have Been Made by Certain Interests to Persuade New President to Abandon Merchant Fleet.

By Lawrence Martin

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—President Coolidge is about to tackle the difficult and involved problem of the American merchant marine.

He had a brief conference at the white house today with chairman Farley of the shipping borad. This was preliminary to a meeting with the entire shipping board in the near future at which Mr. Coolidge will be given an abc dollars and cents analysis of the board's plans for efficient economical government operation of the ships it owns.

Mr. Coolidge is likely to find himself in the vortex of a maelstrom of politics and intrigue the minute he tackles this troublesome problem. In recent weeks and more particularly since President Harding's death, efforts have been pressed by certain interests which think they see an opportunity to persuade the new administration that the wisest policy is to let go of the merchant fleet at once.

The administration will be under strong pressure, both from within and without, to unload the bulk of the merchant fleet on terms dictated by private interests and heretofore rejected by the government.

Strong arguments will be laid before Mr. Coolidge to the effect that economical government operation is a virtual impossibility and the best way out is to reverse the position so determinedly adhered to by Mr. Harding and let the best of the fleet go directly and completely into private hands.

The president already has clearly stated that he has reached no conclusions on merchant marine policy. With characteristic caution he has asked the shipping board to go into greater detail concerning its plan of temporary operation. What he wants to know is:

1. How much this plan will cost the government.

2. Whether present losses can be cut down, and if so, how much?

3. Approximately how long government operation will be necessary.

He also will have before him all available information concerning the offers, plans and ideas of private shipping interests, and will confer with leaders in congress.

His decision will be communicated to congress in December. It is unlikely to be made public before that time.

GOLDEN ENDORSES WHISTLES

Assistant Superintendent of Northwestern Explains to Fremont Why Engines Are Noisy.

FREMONT, Neb., Aug. 30.—W. B. Golden, assistant superintendent of the Northwestern railroad probably effectively ended the agitation in favor of an ordinance regulating the whistling of trains that pass thru the city. Golden before the city council session this week spoke against the enactment of an ordinance covering the matter. Railroads, he said, are making a concerted effort to prevent crossing accidents by giving warnings by whistling. Eight blasts he said, are recommended instead of four, for each highway intersection. While efforts are in progress to lesson the automobile accidents and generally are approved by the public, it seems out of place to enact ordinances penalzing railroads company engineers who give the kind of warning that is necessary to preserve the public safety. Councilman Roy Hardenbrook, who resides near the railroad tracks, did not offer the proposed ordinance, to regulate whistling of trains.

MINT DIRECTOR RESIGNS

Edward Soobey, Appointed by Harding, Declares He "Wants to Go Out With Him."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Edward Scobey, San Antonio, Tex., director of the mint, today resigned, effective October 1.

Scobey formerly a resident of Troy, O., for nearly a quarter of a century a close friend of the late President Harding, gave as his reason for resigning the fact that he "came in with Harding and wanted to go out with him."

TRANSPORTED FIGHT FILMS

John E. McGrath to Be Charged With Carrying Dempsey-Gibbons Pictures From Shelby.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—United States Commissioner James R. Glass today said he would grant a request of Edwin L. Weisl assistant United States district attorney, for a warrant charging John E. McGrath with transportation of Dempsey-Gibbons fight films from Shelby, Mont., to Chicago. The penalty upon conviction is $1,000 fine.

LINCOLN FATHER AND SONS DROWN

Jacob Jacobs of Lincoln and his two sons, Jacob, jr., fourteen, and John, four, were drowned on Lake Winnebago when the smallest son in catching a fish overturned the boat, according to word received here. The Jacobs family lived at 413 South First street.

The family, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs and eight children, left Lincoln with the second group of beet workers for the Wisconsin beet fields in May. They had been living in a cabin in Stockridge. The bodies will be brought back to Lincoln Friday for burial.

"Dual Personality" Girl Takcn to Insane Asylum

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 30.—Science lost ground to psychic abnormality today in one of the strangest battles ever waged.

The center of the long fight is Miss Bernice Redick. For nearly three years master psychologists have been puzzled by two distinct personalities struggling to rule her slender body.

These personalities are:

Miss Redick's normal self, a somewhat sensitive and highly nervous girl of twenty-two.

"Polly", who has all the characteristics of a four-year-old child, except that she has an unusually violent temper and uses "grown up cuss words" when she is crossed.

The first time Miss Redick lapsed into the "Polly" personality was when she was in high school nearly three years ago. At one time, about a year ago, psychologists believed the girl's "baby self" completely "killed out". Recently the personality changes have become more frequent again.

Today efforts of science to banish "Polly" came to an end. Attendants of Ohio state university hospital, where Miss Redick has been a patient since December, prepared for her removal to the state hospital for the insane.

Bernice, aided by psychologists with a wide knowledge of mental phenomena, has lost to "Polly".

Her nervous system has wasted away under the constant conflict of her two personalities. According to Dr. Paul Charlton, house physician at the university hospital, Miss Redick's health is declining rapidly.

COUNTY LEVIES IN SELECTED COUNTIES

Show Net Decrease of $88,251—No State Tax This Year for Fund for Relief of Soldiers.

State Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith has taken twelve selected counties, including Douglas and Lancaster, and shows that the total decrease in county taxes this year is $160,917.81 an dthe total increase is $72,666.61, or a net decrease of $88,251.20 in the twelve counties. The total decrease in state taxes in the same counties is $294,816.64. The state levy this year is 2 mills as compared with 2.3 last year.

The state levy this year does not include any tax for the $2,000,000 fund for relief of Nebraska war veterans. Last year this relief tax in the state levy amounted to $1,000,000. The amount raised by state taxes this year is $1,000,000 less than last year.

Some counties have reduced county levies this year and some have a higher levy. The county levies in the twelve counties selected by the state tax commissioner for comparison are:

Adams county levy increased from 1.3 to 2 mills.

Buffalo county levy increased from 2.3 to 2.6 mills.

Cass county levy decreased from 3.1 to 3 mills.

Dodge county levy increased from 2.7 to 3.4 mills.

Douglas county levy decreased from 3.5 to 3.3 mills.

Gage county levy increased from 2.5 to 2.4 mills.

Hall county levy 2.5—no change this year.

Lancaster county levy 1.64—no change this year.

Nemaha county levy increased from 2.1 to 3.2 mills.

Platte county levy increased from 2 to 2.9 mills.

Saunders county levy 2.7—no change this year.

Washington county levy decreased from 4.244 to 3.41.

The following shows the total county taxes and the increase or decrease in 1923 over 1922, and the total county levy, in the counties listed below, also the total state taxes with the decrease in the various counties, the state levy being two mills:

PROBE AFFAIRS OF AN IOWA REALTOR

Two Hundred and Fifty Thousand Dollars Said to Be Involved in Suicide of Robert Wallace.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Aug. 30.—Omaha and Council Bluffs bankers today began delving into the tangled affairs of Robert B. Wallace, president of the Iowa Chamber of Commerce and prominent local realtor who committed suicide near here yesterday.

Approximately $250,000 is said to be involved.

Officials of the United States Trust company of Omaha took charge of Wallace's books today and experts were examining records behind closed doors.

One hundred and ten instruments of deeds and real estate mortgages were registered in Wallace's name in the past week.

Wallace, former partner of the late Major General Grenville M. Dodge, Civil war hero and Wall street broker, was administrator of the $1,500,000 Dodge estate.

Wallace's suicide was caused by his worry over a $4,000 shortage which he failed to account for while he was secretary of the municipal water board, according to John G. Woodward, president of the Council Bluffs Savings bank.

Wallace was known as the "king of optimists" and was the idol of many thousand small boys of western Iowa.

He was a member of the national committee of the Y. M. C. A.; national board of trustees of the Presbyterian church and national committee, board of realtors.

STABBED OVER RELIGION

Yet Neither Man in Controversy Belonged to a Church, It Is Said.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Aug. 30.—A charge of assault with intent to commit murder has been filed against Neil Wise, who stabbed Henry Schultz in the back. The affair occured on the street of Oto, Ia., and followed a heated argument over religion. Neither of the men is a church member, it is said.

According to Sheriff Paul T. Beardsley who filed the charge, the men are farm hands. Altho Schultz is in a critical condition it is expected that he will recover.

Both men were drunk at the time of the stabbing, according to eye witnesses.

Wise used a pocket clasp knife with a blade about five inches long and struck Schultz in the back of the right side just above the hip.

Bond, fixed at $10,000 has not been furnished. Wise is in the couty jail.

WED JUST BEFORE DEATH

Baltimore Couple Married by Priest Half an Hour Before Girl Succumbs to Appendicitis.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 29.—One-half hour before she died, Miss Anna M. Feahy was married to Michael J. Downs, jr., in St. Agnes hospital here.

Downs and Miss Feahy were to have been married September 5. The bride-to-be became suddenly ill. She was operated on for appendicitis and little hope was held for her recovery.

Downs constantly was at her bedside and about midnight it was proposed that the wedding be performed before she died. Father Girard, of the Congregation of Passionists, agreed to perform the ceremony. Catholic sisters stood by as witnesses.

The bride was conscious during the entire ceremony, and when it was over, with the wedding ring on her finger, she smiled and awaited death.

CAPITOL COMMISSION ESCAPES

Employe Settled With Road and Commission Owes Nothing.

State compensation commissioner L. B. Frye has awarded William Mericle, an employee of the state capitol commission, $15 a week for twenty-five weeks and three days and hospital and medical expense because of injuries inflicted upon him June 20, 1922 when a car of dirt broke loose at the state house and went wildly down the H street railroad and collided at Seventh and H streets with a car upon which Mr. Mericle was riding. Because the claimant made an outside settlement with the Burlington railroad and with Peterson, Shirley & Gunther, contractors who excavated the earth for the capitol, he will now get no part of the award. He received $1,121 in settlement of his claim from the railroad and contractor and the capitol commission is entitled to credit for this payment. As it exceeds the amount of the compensation the commission owes the claimant nothing.

WARNS PUBLIC ABOUT HIGH COAL PRICES

U. S. Coal Commission Declares Unscrupulous Dealers May Try to Raise Charges in Case of Strike.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The United States coal commission today made public a report on anthracite prices in which warning was issued that unscrupulous dealers may attempt to send up the price of anthracite in the event of a strike.

The commission blamed "speculative jobbers or wholesalers" for the high anthracite prices during last year's shortage. Those dealers pyramided prices by passing the coal from hand to hand, though most of them had absolutely no connection with mining it.

"Should a stoppage of mining occur September 1, it will accentuate the already panicky demand for anthracite and unless the buyer and the retailer representing him learn from past experience, unscrupulous wholesalers will have another opportunity to repeat their speculative activities of last fall and winter on any anthracite coal that may be on the market after September 1," the commission warned. "In the absence of any definite regulatory powers over either mine prices or wholesalers' margins on the part of state or federal authorities, the extent of such activities and the amount of premium added by wholesalers will depend largely upon the willingness of the retailer and the consuming public to pay the prices demanded."

CHEMICAL STOCK SURPRISE

Davison Chemical Goes From 52 to 72, a Total Advance of 42 in Six Days.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A bucking broncho came into the stock market today in the form of Davison Chemical stock, which got completely out of hand, causing considerable confusion on the floor of the exchange.

The issue which has been exhibiting marked pyrotechnics for the past few days, reared its head early in the session today and jumped to 72, up 20 points net and 42 points advance in the last six days.

It quieted later, dropping to 50, but even with this recession the movements of the issue continued the feature of commanding interest.

An informal investigation conducted on the floor of the exchange by officials brought out that the sensational rise in the first hour had been due to purely technical conditions and no necessity was found for further inquiry.

Kearns and Dempsey Would Be Penalized

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Both Jack Dempsey and his manager, Jack Kearns, will be prosecuted if pictures of the Shelby Dempsey-Gibbons fight are shown here, Edwin A. Olson, United States district attorney announced today.

Olson's ultimatum was prompted by the fact that films of the fight known to have been sent here have disappeared, and reports were circulated that an attempt will be made to show them. He said Dempsey and Kearns are 70 per cent owners.

EUROPEAN SITUATION IS TENSE

OPPOSED TO PINCHOT PLAN

Some Operators Disapprove Recognition of Union.

WILL REPLY FRIDAY NOON

Both Sides Voting on His Proposal.

Have Fought for Years Against Policy Which Pennsylvania Governor Submits for Strike Arbitration.

By Paul R. Mallon

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 30.—Anthracite coal operators look with disfavor upon certain phases of the Pinchott proposal for settlement of the threatened coal strike.

Efforts to secure an agreement on the scale of maintenance men failed today when the miners rejected an offer of the operators, the amount of which could not be learned. The decision was reached at a meeting of the mine leaders early today.

An agreement was concluded between mine union leaders and the operators' representatives, today, placing mainteance men on the eight-hour day basis, thus assuring protection of the mines in the event of the strike takes place September 1.

An earlier offer of the operators was rejected by the miners. The agreement was announced by the miners after the operators had left for Philadelphia to consider the Pinchot proposal.

The operators left for Philadelphia at 9 a. m. They were to hold an executive meeting in Warriner's office there to go over the entire Pinchot settlement proposal.

Some of the owners, it is learned on indisputable authority today, are strongly opposed to comple recognition of the union against which they have fought for years.

The operators refuse to give any public expression of their sentiments until they submit their answer to Governor Pinchot tomorrow noon. But it is known several of them believe acceptance of the peace offer made by the governor would involve an enormous concession on their part.

Caucus on Proposal.

Both sides are caucusing today on the proposal—the miners here and the operators on their way to Philadelphia.

The general scale committee of the miners is considering the four points outlined by the governor and it was indicated by some of them that the suggestions might be accepted.

Pinchot's proposal, given out last night, was:

1—A 10 per cent wage increase for the men.

2—A "halfway check off" permitting the union to collect dues from the men at the mines on pay day, but also providing that the operators shall fully recognize the union.

3—Recognition of the eight-hour day.

The governor also added another point—that of recognition of the right of collective bargaining. He suggested that if the miners and operators separately were not able to accept his proposal, they should go into joint session with an impartial, non-voting chairman who could advise them. And if they still could not reach agreement, he suggested that the matter be left to the miners and operators board of conciliation. But inasmuch as only twelve hours will remain until strike time, when the answers of both sides are given to him tomorrow noon, it appeared likely a strike would ensue if either party rejects the basic offer. It seemed unlikely to observers that any step could be taken to avoid a breach if either party objects.

May Seize Mines.

The lone hope upon which Pinchot then may rely to avoid a suspension of mining is the plan whereby Pinchot may seize the mines and with the help of the miners produce coal.

It is known that Pinchot has been advised to appeal to the public health commissioner and declare a state emergency so that his administration may assume control of the mines.

The only possibility of producing coal if either side objects to the proposal lies in the suggestion Pinchot take over the operation of the mines and appeal to the laborers to have the country from a winter fuel famine.

If the operators reject his proposal he could say to the miners that he had done all he could for them and that they should abide by the public desire, until they found it necessary to quit the mines.

The miners are not entirely agreeable to the proposal. They want some changes made but as far as they are concerned outside authorities have been assured they will take the principle of the suggestion and allow the minor matters to be settled later.

The operators announced that they were going to Philadelphia to work out their answer. They do not expect to return here until Friday morning.

HEN QUESTION NOW BOTHERS

ALSO NO OUTSIDE WORK CLAUSE IN ZONE ORDINANCE.

Permits Same Number of Cacklers on Fortieth Street Lot as on Same Space Along Sheridan Boulevard.

The mayor's attention has been called to the fact that the proposed zoning ordinance permits the same number of cacklers per lot on Sheridan boulevard as on Fortieth street. One dozen hens to 500 spuare feet of yardage. This means approximately 18 hens to the ordinary 50 by 142 foot lot. Each rooster is counted one the same as each hen. Mayor Zehrung is inclined to accept the criticism as reasonable. He is not sure but that the man man who buys a lot at the very edge of town for the purpose of growing hens should be permitted to grow a larger flock than the person who lives in a thickly settled resident area. He thinks it true however that eighteen hens per lot is reasonably liberal

Others have questioned the language under public garages. They want to know the meaning of these words: no automobile repair or adjustment work shall be done out of doors. This sentence is removed several lines from "public garage" and the questioners apparently assume that it has no relation to the garage public. They have asked whether or not it means that on a Sunday morning the owner of a car cannot grease himself up while repairing his own in his own back yard. The explanation is given that it is aimed only at the little down town repair shop where orders are taken inside and work done outside.

These bits of constructive criticism and efforts to gain information are welcomed by the mayor, others of the council and by members of the zoning advisory board.

"We want the public to know," said the mayor, "that we want a zoning ordniance and not the zoning ordinance. We want every property holder to give the ordinance careful study—particularly such sections as interest the individual himself. After he has done this, we want suggestions from him. Don't try to kill a good law because of some little feature that may readily stand correction."

HOTEL BANKRUPTCY HEARING

Judge Munger to Hold Session Wednesday to Determine Nebraska Hotel Company Case.

The petitions of Clarence E. Harman and Jesse V. Craig to have the bankruptcy adjudications of the Nebraska Hotel and Nebraska Building and Investment companies set aside, will be backed by testimony Wednesday morning in a hearing before Judge Munger. The petitioners say the bankruptcy proceedings were fraudulently instituted and prosecuted, for the purpose of protecting certain individuals, and they charge that the bankrupt estate is not being administered. Trustee B. F. Taylor is resisting their action, having filed lengthy answers to the petition this week, denying most of its allegations and defending the bankrupt administration.

CON MEN NOT UP TO SNUFF

THIS APPARENTLY IS AN OFF YEAR FOR THEM.

If Iowa Mercury May Be Taken as Standard—A Usually Safe Procedure, Small Crime Is at Standstill.

P. T. Barnum's pet theory may have little chance of exposure during state fair week, peace officers say. There are two common types of criminal who usually "make" state fairs. One is the "con" man and the other the pickpocket. If Iowa may be taken as standard—usually a safe sort of taking, the confidence game is under wraps this year. Possibly the old crop of "con" men have graduated into the auto theft and safe cracking field and the new crop evidently is short.

Mayor Zehrung's prophesy of a small show of crime at this fair session, is given substance in word from Detective Joe Rymer who is "covering" the big open-air exposition in that state this week. In a letter to Chief Johnstone, the Lincoln detective states that there is little or no evidence of petty crime. From an attendance standpoint, he says the Iowa fair is below standard, the largest crowd to date being 39,000.

Altho the crime mercury apparently is low, officials are not taking it for granted. Every precaution will be taken to protect the public. Chief Johnstone will entertain during the entire week two prominent detectives from Denver and one from Omaha. These men together with local detectives and policemen in plain clothes, will circulate thru the crowds on a relentless hunt for the "con" man and the pickpocket.

Group Chief "Bob" Anderson of the federal prohibition enforcement wing, conferred with State Sheriff Carroll Thursday. He stated that four men from the Omaha office will be in Lincoln thruout the week. The state sheriff is calling in his men for a full attendance next week.

Because of numerous bank and store robberies during the past few months—clean-cut robberies followed by clean-cut getaways, the common prophesy of the street is that criminals should be here in flocks. The criminal expert, however, explains that yeggs seldom wander from the chosen profession. A yegg is a yegg. The man who robs confines his activities to robbery. If placed in a pinch, he may extend them to include murder, but he would no sooner think of stooping to a hunt for pocket spoils or playing the confidence string than would the man unversed in crime.

In addition to the "con" and the long-fingered gentry, however, the automobile thief may drop in for a look at the crop of cars. Because of this possibility, officials urge that out of town people park their cars in garages or on guarded ground when the vehicle is to be left over a considerable stretch.

MERRY PARTY TAKEN OVER

State Officers Interrupt Five Young People on Road Near State Hospital.

State officers interrupted an automobile party on the road near the state hospital late Wednesday night and arrested five young people, three men and two women. According to State Sheriff Tom Carroll, the following names were given: E. F. Hopkins, Walter Reeder, Thomas Boyles, Edith Buskirk and Maud Buskirk. The alleged presnce of liquor in the car caused the officers to take a hand. The sheriff stated that there were two bottles, one of which was broken.

The girls are said to live in Lincoln while the men give their home as Cass county. Mr. Carroll said that four were lodged in jail but that one of the girls was not put in a cell. He said that complaints, at least against the men, would charge illegal transportation and possession.

GREAT FORCE NOW AT WORK

BURLINGTON RUSHING REBUILDING OF FLOOD BROKEN LINE.

Immensity of Undertaking, However, Will Require Another Month and a Half to Restore Wyoming Road.

The Burlington now has about four hundred men and three hundred teams, with steam shovels, tractors and other grading and road building machines at work on the seven miles of new road being constructed east of Bonneville, Wyo., where the July flood broke the central Wyoming line. The forces are being increased daily, but with the best of conditions obtaining from now on it is estimated that it will be October 1 before thrus service on regular schedules can be restored. The work is being done by the Kilpatricks of Beatrice and company forces.

General Manager Flynn of the Burlington, who passed thru Lincoln Thursday on his way to Omaha after a trip to Bonneville, Cheyenne, Brush, Sterling, Cutis, Holdrege and Nebraska City, said that the work was progressing well but that the task was so big that it will take time.

Mr. Flynn reported that the corn crop from the east to the west line of Nebraska is excellent.

INDIAN RULER NOT DEAD

Dr. Joshi of India Says It Was a Son and Not the Ruler Who Died in Holland.

Dr. S. L. Joshi, exchange professor from the University of Baroda, India, stationed at the University of Nebraska, said Thursday at Governor Bryan's office that the Associated Press report was in error Tuesday morning when it carried announcement of the death of the Indian governor, Gaekwar, reigning maharaja of the state of Baroda. Dr Joshi said it was a son of the ruler who died at Flushing, Holland, not the ruler. The son was a graduate of Harvard and was on his way from Holland to Berlin. The Indian prince, Sampatrao Gaekwar, who visited Lincoln last spring, is a brother of the reigning maharaja. Dr. Joshi's stay in Lincoln as exchange professor has practically expired, but he expects to remain in this country as his services have been sought by several other universities. He left Thursday for Boulder, Col., to deliver the commencement address at the summer school of the University of Colorado. He will return to Lincoln in October.

A JUDGESHIP TO GIVE OUT

GOVERNOR TO FILL VACANCY IN SIXTH DISTRICT.

Half Dozen or More Attorneys, Mostly Democrats, Willing to Make the Necessary Sacrifice.

Governor Bryan has been besieged by friends of attorneys who would not object to appointment to the vacancy in the Sixth district judgeship caused by the death of Judge A. M. Post of Columbus. The district comprises Boone, Nance, Merrick, Platte, Colfax and Dodge counties. At least one attorney in each county has indicated willingness to make the sacrifice necessary to serve as judge and draw $5,000 a year salary from the state appropriation.

Application has been made to the governor on behalf of W. M. Cain of Fremont, J. E. Dorsheimer of Central City, R. D. Flory of Albion, Elmer E. Ross of Central City, William I. Allen of Schuyler and Henry M. Kidder of Fremont.

In addition I. L. Albert of Columbus and State Senator Charles J. Thielen of Humphrey are "mentioned." John C. Martin of Central City, candidate for the office at an election, has not had his name presented to the governor. It is not on the list in the governor's hands. Most of the applicants are democrats. Altho the office is a non-political office, it is taken for granted by many attorneys that the appointment will go to a democrat. Judge Post, who died last week, was a republican.

Governor Bryan has indicated that he is not in favor of barring persons from appointive office, especially a non-partisan office, just because they happen to affiliate with the democratic party.

A delegation from Albion called Thursday on Governor Bryan on behalf of R. D. Flory, a democrat of Albion. The delegation comprised ex-State Senator James T. Brady, Representative James Auten, O. M. Needham and C. G. Barns.

Congressman Edgar Howard called at the governor's office but said he came to pay his respects to the governor and not to recommend anyone for appointment.

The precedent set by Governor McKelvie in referring all vacancies in the district bench to attorneys of the district has not been followed by Governor Bryan.

LIONS PUT ON OVERALLS

Club Members Hurry Thru Lunch and Go Out to Blaze Lions' Trail Thru City.

Natural history received a jolt Thursday when a large herd of Lions appeared at the chamber of commerce wearing overalls. Some of them carried paint brushes, and all of them roared lustily. They were not the vanguard of next month's circus, but sign painters in more or less disguise, and they hurried thru lunch and dispensed with the usual program in their eagerness to get to work. First they had their pictures taken.

The afternoon's task was the blazing of the Lions' trail, an automobile highway designed to give visiting motorists an hour's tour of Lincoln and itsenvirons. The trail passes the capitol, the principal institutions in and around the city, and traverses the boulevards. It will be marked with plentiful and unmistakable signs in black and yellow

GOV. M'CRAY HAS TROUBLE

INDIANA EXECUTIVE ADMITS FINANCIAL LOSSES.

Meeting of His Creditors Called at Indianapolis, Following His Resignation From Bank and Sale of Stock.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 30.—A meeting of bank creditors of Gov. Warren T. McCray who today admitted "heavy reverses during the recent agricultural depression," has been called here tomorrow.

Elmer T. Stout, president of the Fletcher-American National bank, one of the governor's heaviest creditors, called the meeting shortly after McCray's resignation as president of the Discount and Deposit bank, Kentland, was made public.

Until recently McCray had been rated one of the financial as well as political powers of the state. He is interested in several noted livestock farms and the losses were said to be in connection with these.

"Several creditors have asked us if our institution would take charge of the governor's assets and distribute them among the creditors," Stout said.

He disclosed however that he had been only the nominal head of the Kentland institution, and had contemplated resigning for some time.

McCray stated he had been forced to pay off securities held by this bank in order to preserve its integrity. The institution is now declared sound.

The governor said he had accepted farm notes for blooded cattle and discounted them at the bank. When the bank became flooded with notes of a like nature and was in need of cash the governor personally took care of all the notes, he asserted.

"It is the same situation that every farmer and banker in the state must face," the governor said. "Unfortunately, I am both a farmer and a banker, and I took the legitimate way to protect the institution and myself."

KENTLAND, Ind., Aug. 30.—Gov. Warren T. McCray has resigned as president of the Discount and Deposit bank, founded by his father here, it was announced today by Judge James Darroch, who now heads the institution.

J. V. Dodson, a vice president, revealed that McCray has also disposed of 250 shares of stock in the bank and has taken up loans.

Governor McCray today, in commenting on his resignation as president of the Discount and Deposit bank of Kentland, said he had desired to resign two years ago when elected governor but friends prevailed upon him to remain.

"Since being in the governor's chair my official duties have been so heavy that I have been able to attend only two directors meetings," he said.

ITALIAN ULTIMATUM STARTLES GREEKS

Remainder of Europe Fearful of War Thru Action of Mussolini.

REPARATION IS DEMANDED

Murder of Five Italians Must Be Avenged.

ITALIAN FLEET IS PREPARED

Council of Ambassadors to Be Called to Meet in Paris to Request Italy to Make No Aggressive Moves.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—"Europe today is suddenly confronted by the grave and imminent danger of a new war."

This paragraph in the London Evening Star today sums up British opinion of the crisis precipitated by Italy's twenty-four hour ultimatum to Greece, demanding redress for assassination of five Italian members of the Albanian frontier commission.

Britian was starled by the suddenness of Premier Mussolini's dractic action. The press emphasized the gravity of the situation, comparing it to that which followed the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia in 1914.

The Daily News denounced Mussolini's action and declares that "no self-respecting state" could submit to the Italian demands.

ATHENS, Aug. 30.—The Greek cabinet met today to consider the Italian ultimatum which gives this country twenty-four hours to make reparation for the massacre of five Italian officers in Greek territory.

Premier Gonatas stated to the press that some of the demands could not be accepted, that some must be modified and that others are acceptable to Greece.

The premier added that Greece felt the greatest indignation with regard to the crime, but believed Albanian bandits and not Greeks, were guilty of it.

"I believe this unfortunate incident will not ultimately affect Greek and Italian relations."

It was reported that in event of a deadlock Greece would invoke the intercession of the league of nations.

The Greeks were understood to be willing to pay the fifty million lire indemnity demanded, but to oppose acceptance of some of the other clauses of the ultimatum, which are considered humiliating.

The principal points of the Italian ultimatum are:

Fifty million lire indemnity must be paid.

Italian officials are to be allowed to participate in a thoro investigation conducted at the scene of the massacre, within five days.

All culprits are to be executed.

Greece must apologize to Italy thru the medium of a high military officer.

The Greek cabinet is to attend funeral services for the victims, to be conducted in the cathedral at Athens.

The Green fleet must salute the Italian fleet in Greek waters off Piraeus, the port of Athens. Each ship is to fire twenty-one guns and hoist the Italian colors.

The assassination of the five members of the Italian commission occurred while they were riding in an automobile near cars containing other members of the interallied commission for delimitation of the Albanian frontier.

The Italians' car was halted by a tree which had been felled across the road. This was at 9 a. m. Monday, midway between Janina and Santa Quaranta, and the scene of the occurrence was a thick woods.

As the Italian car halted thirty or forty shots were fired from ambush. Major Corti was killed instantly. Other members of the commission jumped from the car and started to run but were shot. When the Greek colonel, Bolzari, who was in a car behind, arrived on the scene the bodies were lying where they fell.

It is the contention of Italy that Greece, acting in belief that the Italians favored adjustment of the frontier more favorable to Albania than to Greece, ordered them massacred, or at least failed to take proper precautions to prevent it.

The Italian ultimatum was drawn up by Premier Mussolini yesterday and delivered to the Greek government late last night. The fact that the Italian note was a twenty-four hour ultimatum was not revealed until it had been handed to Premier Gonatas. This fact came as a shock to all of Europe. The Italians waited three days after the massacre of the five members of the border mission before deciding what action to take.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—A Milan dispatch to the Evening News today said the Italian fleet at Taranto had been ordered to clear for action, as a movement against Greece might occur at any moment.

Taranto is an Italian naval base on the gulf of Taranto at the base of the "heel" of "the Italian boot."

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The council of ambassadors will be called to meet in Paris and will request Italy to make no aggressive moves pending settlement of her dispute with Greece, it was authoritatively forecast here today.

The ambassadors will forward to Greece a protest against the assassination of the Italian border commission and will recommend an immediate government inquiry into the massacre.

It is expected Greece will consent, whereupon the request will be made to Italy to withhold her hand.

KIDGDOM FOR SOME HORSES

HISTORIC FLUSHER LOANED TO STATE FAIR BOARD.

Fire Department Consisting of One Piece of Motor-Drawn Apparatus and Four Men Will Protect.

While the city is furnishing one of its $10,000 pieces of motor apparatus and four men for fire fighting if fighting is in order on the fair grounds next week, it has little to offer in way of modern street sprinkling carts. The historic horse-drawn flusher was loaned to Secretary Danielson by Commissioner Cowgill. When the secretary looked at the empty space where horses once stood, the commissioner is said to have remarked:

"Yes, we have no horses."

The city's two motor flushers are not for loan or for rent tho the street department head promises to sprinkle right up to the very gates. Prior to four weeks ago, but one flusher was in use and it operated something like four hours a day. There are now sixteen flusher hours with two machines going it.

That pavements and crossings are to be in tip-top shape by Monday is indicated from a glimpse at the following list of pre-war activities:

Fourteenth street pavement north from Claremont being resurfaced Thursday.

Paving contractor repairing at own expense two long ruts in "O" street pavement between Sixteenth and Seventeenth.

Repair gang to patch holes wherever found. One bad hole on Eleventh, between O and P.

Holdrege street viaduct completed and ready for use.

Missouri Pacific crossing near stadium at S street has been put in good order.

New crossings at foot of viaduct, Eighth and O streets.

Missouri Pacific putting in new crossings on Sixteenth. Other roads putting them in on Seventeenth.

Traction company dressing up number of bad spots.

State expected to have H street railroad surfaced with asphalt by time fair opens.

Dirt roads leading to grounds pronounced by Commissioner Cowgill to be in good condition after much dragging.

All white-line spaces and safety zones to receive coat of standard white paint before Monday.

GOLD RUSH TO NORTH FIELDS

LABRADOR FIND BRINGS MANY PROSPECTORS.

Eskimos, Farmers, a Millionaire Are Among Those Who Hope to Profit by Discovery of the Indians.

By Sheldon Fairbanks.

STAG BAY, Labrador Aug 30—Whether or not there is gold in these hills is still a disputed question, but one thing is certain—there is a wealth of material for a movie camera

The setting, the background of the great open spaces, the perfect types are all in readiness All that is needed is the fair heroine, a facile scenarist and the cameraman.

The much advertised "gold rush" is far from a stampede That is, so far as gold hunters are concerned But there are man hunters galore The Newfoundland government has stationed eleven members of the constabulary and five customs officers here This allotment makes Stag Bay's police force probably the largest in the world per capita of population protected, for it averages about one policeman to each inhabitant

Crowding the decks of the Newfoundland government's steamer, the Watchful, which rides at anchor, are the police, the crew, dirty but colorful Eskimos, moved south with their families from Hopedale and Nain to find work at mining but discovering instead a batch of rumors rough-garbed fishermen clumping gloomily about because the late ice has nearly ruined them a handful of prospectors, grizzled veterans of the Klondike and the Yukon

A short row from the Watchful, with its Eskimos whose only possessions are the patched clothes on their persons and maybe a skin or two, is the trim two masted auxiliary schooned Sylvia II

Outwardly a fine fisherman, inwardly a millionaire's yacht It is the property of a millionaire, Maj Alan S Butler of London, a flying man of distinction in the late war, sportsman and clubman Disdaining pilot or skipper he brought his own schooner thru the thick field of ice to Stag Bay Primarily on a pleasure trip for himself and his friends, he brought along a geologist and if the gold is there he will be there too.

Outside the bay rides the Arctic schooner Bowdoin, with radio and the members of the North Greenland expedition headed by Captain Donald B MacMillan, noted Polar explorer. Intent only on forging on thru the ice to the far north before the season is too advanced to obtain a meat supply for the winter, the lure of gold fails to attract the explorers, who push on for the few remaining Labrador ports before cutting across to Greenland

And how about the inception of this Labrador "gold discovery"? Nobody seems to know definitely who is supposed first to have discovered the gold or what has become of it. The writer saw one piece of quartz bearing a fair amount of free gold at Stag Bay. It was in possession of a Newfoundlander, a farmer turned prospector. He said he obtained it from Indians who brought it out from the interior. Maybe they did. Geologists who viewed it pronounced it a very good speciment and stated that if such quartz were present in any quantity it would be a good paying proposition.

This seems to be the chief question as regards Labrador as a future gold field—whether the gold is present in paying quantities. That there is gold in Labrador and that the geological formation would indicate the presence of gold is agreed upon by all the geologists who are now at Stag Bay. One of these, however, said that in about a week's work along the shore he had not struck so much as a color. The prevailing opinion seems to be that if the gold is there in paying quantities it will be found inland, possibly along the river beds.

Many Buy Claims.

The regrettable feature of the hunt for gold at Stag Bay is that many hard-working persons, living in Newfoundland, Canada and possibly a few in the United States have bought claims in the Stag Bay region at prices varying from $200 to $700 each. These claims are considerably smaller than the ones originally purchased for $10 each.

The increase in value is supposed to be based on the fact that gold has been found near by. As a matter of fact there is plenty of land, available at the $10 government rate, that geologists on the ground say looks just as promising as a possible gold field.

"Your Teeth Sleep While We Work"

WHAT I SAW ON MY VACATION

The man of the house had a couple of gloriously greasy days' work on the Ford Small daughter was adequately supplied with pennies and every window being pronounced locked, we started on our vacation.

The Cornhusker route was a marvel of Nebraska rains, sunshine and intelligence We passed such numbers of road workers we concluded not all of our taxes were spent for swivel chairs.

An ancient landmark, our imaginations decided, must have been a fort in Indian days A barefoot fisher lad typified the eternal spirit of youth. Two court houses reminded us of stable government and its blessings, An imposing monument told us we passed the Oregon trail What pictures came to mind of that caravan of pioneers

Everywhere was the whirr of threshing machines. Tired women were preparing feasts, helped by giggling girls planning fun for dinner time

An old man who might have sprung from the Oregon trail with his wagon, axe and kettle stopped to inquire where the road led, tho he cared little where he went He said, "Tell the folks at Lincoln Pilgrim John says, 'Vote for Henry Ford.' "

Romance! One need not travel far. Every soul has the key to unlock its door and he who will may find it wherever he be. G. H. C.

Ours was an overland tour of Denver, and a most wonderful time after getting started. It's starting our Ford I'm telling you about. Not one of us knew the first principle of a car, to show you, someone asked Bob (that's my hubby) what he'd do if the differential wouldn't work.

He scratched his head, looked wise and replied, "Well, I'd find the darn thing first"

One morning Bobby, Rex and I (Rex is the pup) entered our limousine. We were so happy, Rex wagging her apology of a tail, we—well, you know how 'tis.

Hubby turned the key, pulled the gasser (that's what I call it) and stepped on the starter

Nancy gave a heavy sigh—stopped. Pleading, gas and otherwise wouldn't rouse her We tried cranking Nary a shimmy.

At last, drenched in perspiration, hand blistered and bleeding, Bobby staggered out into the dewy morning.

"We're not going I'm thru," he sobbed. "The damned thing won't go"

Tears stream down my face as I rubbed his aching arm, kissed his bleeding hand and begged him try, for Rex's sake, just once more.

He spun that hateful crank, and Nancy snickered, giggled and, as if it were too funny, shook with laughter.

We were off.

Next time the batteries will be charged. MRS. V. E. W.

Probably the most prominent scene which I viewed on my vacation occurred while on the train.

We left Winnipeg one night, bound for Montreal, fifteen hundred miles away.

As long as daylight remained we were riding thru a prairie country which was almost level.

We retired early and upon awakening were very much surprised to observe the great change that had taken place in the scenery. We were riding thru a hilly section of the country covered with trees. After riding thru this timbered land for a great distance I noticed on looking out of the opposite window an altogether different scene. A great body of water stretched as far to the south as was visible. This huge body of water was Lake Superior, along the banks of which we traveled for many hours. Beautiful little islands sprang up out of the waters Occasionally we came to a little cluster of houses which we took to be fishermen's homes, for around them we saw boats with fishermen therein These scenes taken as a whole form one picturesque landscape which artists seek

BUSY IN FIRE PREVENTION

LINCOLN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EXPECTS TO RATE HIGH

National Chamber Offers Four Prizes—School Children of Lincoln Assist in Work.

Lincoln should receive the highest rating in fire prevention activities during 1923 for cities between 50,000 and 100,000 population, Chairman Ernest C Folsom of the chamber of commerce fire prevention committee believes Invaluable assistance in this respect is being rendered by the boys and girls of the junior civic and industrial league, Mr Folsom says The contest is being conducted by the national chamber of commerce in an effort to stimulate national interest in fire prevention work

Chambers of commerce will be judged on their relative accomplishments during the year and graded on the following basis Actual accomplishments in reducing fire loss, 40 per cent educational activities, 30 per cent permanent improvements in protection and construction 30 per cent

In addition to the prizes awarded to the chamber with the highest rating in each of the four classes, a grand prize will be awarded that with the highest rating, regardless of classification

In announcing plans for the contest, Elliot H Goodwin, resident vice-president of the national chamber, in a letter to local secretaries says

"Fire last year claimed almost half as many Americans as were actually killed in battle during the world war Our property loss for the same period would have paid over half the interest on our national debt Yet our fire losses this year are higher than ever

"The loss of life and property by fire can be reduced Chambers of commerce, with fire prevention committees, located in cities of over 20,000 population have proved this During last year the average per capita fire loss in these cities was 30 per cent less than the national per capita loss While they are to be congratulated upon this showing we still have a long way to go before we reach the low records of Great Britain which showed a reduction in the losses last year"

Bad Checks Flood Town.

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb Aug 30 Another flood of bogus checks has struck Nebraska City and almost every business man in town is holding one or two of these checks endeavoring to get settlement The amounts range from $2 to $75, and some are written by prominent firms

TEMPERATURE BELOW NORMAL

Weather Bureau Reports an Abundance of Sunshine.

The week was cool with an abundance of sunshine and during the last three days scattered showers. The temperature average four degrees below normal. Heavy showers occurred in the southeastern and northeastern counties with rainfall exceeding one inch, and in a few places slightly more than two inches. Heavy hail accompanied these showers in several places. In most places the rains did not interfere much with thrashing and haying. Plowing has progressed well and is now more than half done and in some localities more than three-fourths done. Corn made good normal growth but is backward and uneven. Some early planted is denting and considerable acreage will be beyond danger of damage by frost in two to three weeks. The late corn, however, of which there is a large acreage this year, needs mostly four weeks or more of favorable weather free of frost to mature. Sugar beets have grown well. Pastures are unusually good for August.

DEPLORE ACT OF ITALIANS

FRENCH AUTHORITIES THINK NOTE TOO HARSH.

Council of Ambassadors Should Have Been Consulted First, Is Belief of Paris Officials.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—French authorities, it is learned from semi-official sources, deplore Italy's action in dispatching an ultimatum to Greece without first consulting the council of ambassadors. The Italian note is regarded as too harsh and seeks to humiliate Greece unnecessarily. It is doubted whether Greece will be able to raise the money demanded by Italy in so short a time as that fixed in the note

Members of the council of ambassadors are now scattered on their vacations and it has not yet been decided what action may be taken by this body.

L'Information comments in a typical vein on the situation today by saying that Italy is smarting from the competition with Greece in the near east and acted in anger. The editorial then points out that altho the council of ambassadors is slow, its jurisdiction is international in character and any decision that it might have rendered would have been unanimously respected.

PRINCE MAY RETURN.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—The National Prussian government has agreed "in principle" to permit the former Crown Prince Frederick William to return to Germany, it was learned today from sources usually reliable.

Before the final agreement is completed, the former crown prince must guarantee to remain on his estate, if permitted to return, and refrain from mixing in politics, it was said.

BUT ONE WAY TO AVOID WAR

GREECE MUST ACCEPT ULTIMATUM OF MUSSOLINI.

Italian Premier Seizes Opportunity to Increase Prestige at Home, by Intimidating Athens Government.

By J. W. T. Mason.

War between Greece and Italy can be averted only by acceptance by the Athens government of the principal terms of the Italian ultimatum. Greece is in no position to wage a successful conflict against Italy and it is probable, therefore, that Athens will satisfy the Italian demands.

Should war result, however, it would be an easy matter for the Italian fleet to capture Piraeus, the port of Athens, and the Italian flag thereafter would almost certainly fly from the Greek capital. The Italian government has revealed that this would be its basic strategy, by sending a battle fleet to Greek waters under the terms of the ultimatum.

The Greek coast would be a quick prey to the Italians if the ultimatum were challenged and the overthrow of the Athenian government would follow.

Mussolini has seized the present opportunity to increase his prestige at home. There is no certainty that the border commissioners were killed by Greeks. It is possible the assassins were Albanians, as first reports stated But Mussolini has declined to await the outcome of an investigation, on the ground that irrespective of the nativity of the murderers, Greece is responsible for not having provided adequate protection for the Italians.

Italians consider the Greeks as their rivals for control of the Adriatic sea. It has long been suspected in Rome that the Greeks seek a secret alliance with the Albanians against the Italians for mastery of the Adriatic. Mussolini's quick action in the present crisis, therefore ensures him the enthusiastic support of his fellow countrymen and permits him to be regarded once more as Italy's savior.

The present is an entirely propitious time for Italy to make a militant gesture at Greece. The other great European powers are so concerned with affairs in the Ruhr that Italy is likely to have a free hand. This means that in the event of war's breaking out, it probably could be localized and would not grow into another world conflagration.

CONSOLIDATION OF INSURANCE FIRMS

Fred E. Walt Insurance Agency Merges With the Surety Companies and Will Move September 1.

The Fred E. Walt Insurance Agency, 404 Terminal Building has been consolidated with The Surety Companies, 214 Terminal building. The Walt Agency will be moved to the new location September 1. Mr. Walt becomes a stockholder of the Surety Investment Company, one of the affiliated institutions of The Surety Companies, and will continue his personal interest in the insurance business as thus combined.

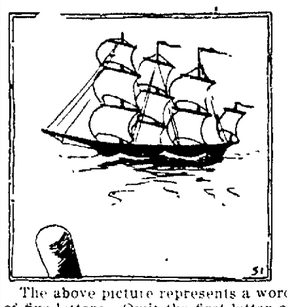

Since assuming the duties of president of the Union Fire Insurance company, Mr. Walt has found it impossible, personally, to continue to look after the details of the Insurance Agency. He will, however, continue his interest and general direction of the business.

C. F. Coy, has been selected by Mr. Walt and The Surety Companies to be in charge of the insurance department, and Miss Grace Harmon, who has been continuously with Mr. Walt since he began his agency, will act in the same capacity as heretofore.

Jack Holt Is Chasing the Blues Away at the Rialto Today, Friday and Saturday.

In "A Gentleman of Leisure," he had to steal a certain girl's photograph within twenty-four hours to win a wager. So he hired a real burglar to help him. And together they stir up a hornet's nest of furious fun and excitement. It's an ideal role for Jack Holt, a perfect blend of rollicking comedy and exciting drama. Mr. and Mrs. Carter DeHaven will be seen in their latest laugh creation, "Rice and Old Shoes"; News and Aesop Fable and the vocal and dancing number presented by Gladys Conrac and Marjorie Corrington with the Rialto Symphony Players rounds out an evening of most enjoyable entertainment.

"The Man Next Door" Delighting Patrons of the Colonial This Week.

A dashing girl who can ride, shoot and rope a steer, is suddenly transformed into a beautiful society creature. She yearns for love! If you enjoy a comedy-drama of pure heart interest laid in the great west and a great city, picturized from a human novel, see "The Man Next Door," by Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon." Other entertaining features of the program are Kinograms, comedy and "The Adventures of Tarzan."

The Liberty Theater Opens Next Week Better Than Ever.

Lovers of high class vaudeville will greet the announcement with joy, that the Liberty will present this season, opening Monday matinee of next week, Orpheum junior circuit vaudeville attractions. The programs will consist of strictly big time vaudeville offerings, with an entire change of program every Monday and Thursday. Three performances will be given daily, at 2:30, 7:00 and 9:00 p. m. Owing to the cost of these bills of standard offerings there will be a slight advance in the admission prices.

A New Agency for HIRSH, WICKWIRE CLOTHES

FOR four months we have been thinking, planning and building toward the day when we could make this announcement, not only because it would mark the realization of our ambition, but because of its significance to every discriminating man in Lincoln.

For years our chief desire has been to select and supply these discriminating men with the finest personal habiliments in the markets of the world. We felt that it was unfair to Lincoln to have its best citizens relying upon New York or London for garments worthy of their position.

This announcement is their assurance that from now on, in their own city, they may be fitted with garments breathing the cosmopolitan atmosphere of New York and London.

It is our appointment by the makers of Hirsh Wickwire Clothes that enables us to promise to you men who appreciate propriety in wearing apparel, the solution of your problem.

Frankly, Hirsh Wickwire Clothes have never been popularized by the masses. They are distinctly fashioned to appeal to men who desire restraint in their garb, not conspicuousness. They are molded along the lines laid down by those who determine what is approved in the fashion centers of the world.

In all candor, we can say, that there are not many tailors who can equal the drape, the fabrics, the distinguished mode found in Hirsh Wickwire Clothes.

Our new display of these Finest of Clothes Ready to Wear, around which this announcement is written, is now ready for your inspection. Every single garment is Hirsh Wickwire made. Every one, the epitome of grace, comfort and style.

Somehow we feel that you will appreciate the honor that has been paid us, and will come to look upon our store as the men's shop where you will find the sort of wearing apparel that reflects your own good taste.

BODY OF ANASTASIA MAY LIE WITH KINGS

Former Cleveland Stenographer and "Tin Plate" Princess Passes Away After a Long Illness.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The body of Princess Anastasia of Greece who used to be a Cleveland, O., stenographer may lie among kings in the Greek royal cemetery near Athens.

The princess died late last night of cancer and a complication of intestinal diseases. Today her relatives had not decided whether her remains would be deposited in Greece or taken home to America.

The end came at 11:48 p. m. according to an announcement by the secretary to Prince Christopher, of Greece, her husband. She had been unconscious for hours and all hope had been abandoned.

When she passed away her husband was at the bedside, together with her son, William B. Leeds, and his wife, Princess Xenia of Greece.

The princess had been ailing since early in the summer. She had undergone four operations for cancer and complications and after each one she rallied and resumed her place in the world, playing an important part in royal society and the international politics of the Balkans. Finally, however, the disease overcame her.

Princess Anastasia, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds, wife of the "Tin plate king", was credited with being the "power behind" in many of the upsets in Greek politics subsequent to the war. It was her vast fortune, many believed, which financed the campaign which led to the downfall of Premier Venizelos and the restoration of the monarchy.

George H. Worthington of Cleveland was her first husband. They were divorced in 1900. That same year she married William B. Leeds, millionaire tin plate king, whom she met while working as a stenographer. He died in Paris in 1908, leaving the income from the bulk of his $25,000,000 estate to his widow.

Mrs. Leeds resided in Europe after her husband's death and there were many rumors that she would marry various princes and other members of the nobility. In 1920 she married Prince Christopher of Greece and the Greek king thereupon conferred upon her the title of Princess Anastasia. She became a relative by marriage of the Danish royal family and the Hohenzollern's.

In 1921 her son, William B. Leeds married Princess Xenia of Greece. He will inherit the income from his father's estate and if he dies without issue the fortune will go to the Lying-in-hospital in New York.

She was born in aZnesville, O., January 20, 1883. Her name was Monnie May Stewart, but she was known to her schoolmates by the nickname of "Pinkie." The family moved to Cleveland, where she grew up in an upper middle class neighborhood.

WALLACE DEATH IS SUICIDE

President of Iowa Chamber of Commerce Had Ill Health and Financial Difficulties.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Aug. 30.—Robert B. Wallace, sixty-three, president of the Iowa chamber of commerce, prominent local realtor and well known in Iowa and national republican politics, was found dead in his automobile on a lonely road seven miles north of here wednesday afternoon. A bullet had pierced his head. A 32 calibre automatic pistol lay in his lap. The body was slumped over the steering wheel.

Coroner Henry Cutler after an investigation announced it was a case of suicide. "There is no need for an investigation," he said.

The family said Wallace had been in ill health for several months. Financial worries also contributed to the cause it was said.

GERMANY UNVEILS TRIBUTE.

GERSFELD, Germany, Aug. 30.—Field Marshall von Hindenburg appeared here today in his post-war role of "monument unveiler and troop reviewer." The occasion, the final day of the Rhoen glider contests and the unveiling of a shaft to the memory of German airmen who lost their lives in the world war and in peace, found Germany's flying heroes from all over the country gathered to honor those who died and those who lived to help Germany attain a place in the air. The monument is the gift of German aviation organizations.

VACATION ROMANCES

A New Role for Blackton.

It seemed odd that when Blackton paddled his canoe far out on the lake he suddenly faced Viola and said, "Now, tell me all about yourself!" with the same accent and kindly interest that Cyril Peters had expressed.

"Oh," gasped Viola, and realized that she must tell him the truth, since he already knew that she was on a two weeks' vacation and held some office position.

"I'm a stenographer in a large mail order house," she admitted. "I live with my father and mother in upper Manhattan and I'm twenty-two years old. That's all there is to my life history."

"You lead about as drab a life as mine," replied Blackton. "I work in a broker's office down on Wall street, but they nevr let me in on any of the tips and I might as well be the gatekeeper. I'm twenty-five and single. I live in a boarding house up town in Manhattan and come up here every summer for my vacation, and that's all there is to my life history."

Viola and young Blackton felt a common bond. Their lives were so similar that each longed to help the other make the most of this vacation in the country.

"In less than two weeks from now you'll be pounding away at your little old typewriter and I'll be guarding the heads that be of my firm," he said rather wearily, "and by that time you will have forgotten me and probably be planning an evening with some nice young man who has a desk near yours."

Memories of "the nice young man in the next office" filled Viola's brain. Ted Robinson with his freckles and impudent grin did not exactly come up to her ideal hero.

"And in less than two weeks you'll probably be teling some smart young man that he can't see your boss without an appointment and planning a dance with some romantic stenographer with Titian hair," countered Viola.

"It just happens that there is a Titian-haired young womat in our office," admitted Blackton, "but she is cross-eyed and doesn't attend dances!"

The sun was just sinking into a glorious pluk and orange curtain, and as their canoe glided smoothly thru the water the young people met each other's eyes with a clear understanding that neither possessed a city sweetheart. They were alone. Romance had not come to either of them and each had secretly hoped that this summer they might meet "the girl" and "the man."

Each wondered whether this was the romance they had looked for. Blackton felt certain that Viola Remington was the girl he had been looking for all his life, but Viola was still sitting loftily on that see-saw of romance which bent sometimes toward Cyril Peters and sometimes toward young Blackton.

Every girl dreams romantic dreams. She expects so much from life and is so worldly before Dan Cupid gets hold of her and brings her real lover to her. Then—her dream seems to fade—and she no longer cares whether he drives a six cylinder car or is able to give her a string of pearls. She is satisfied with a simple little engagement ring and promises.

Viola wanted to cling to her early dreams. She had a faint feeling that Cyril Peters and his big income might fulfil all these dreams, but she was beginning to care about Stanley Blackton, to pity him and help him make the most of his vacation and rather drab life. She would cling to those ideals as long as she could—but love, the desire to make one man happy, was filling her heart.

Tomorrow—A Two Role Part.

Easy Now To Be Rid of Corns

Just Erase Them With Presto.

A new scientific discovery makes it easy to be rid of corns. You simply paint the corn with a magic liquid called Presto Corn Killer and the pain vanishes in thirty seconds, so that you can remove the callous. You don't even need to soak your feet.

Presto is harmless to healthy skin and is the most powerful antiseptic known.

With Presto you can simply erase your corns like you would a mistake in writing. Why suffer corn tortures when Presto makes it so easy to be rid of them?

Get a bottle of Presto Corn Killer for a few cents from your druggist and if it doesn't end your corn troubles in five minutes get your money back.—Advertisement.

FORGIVES MOTHER WHO SHOT

Seventeen-Year-Old Chicago Boy Wounded by Her to Prevent His Entering Life of Crime.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Rose Simiz today obtained the forgiveness of her seventeen-year old son whom she shot to keep from becoming a bandit.

"He was just a bum, and I shot him when he told me he was going to start stealing," Mrs. Simez told the police.

Today the mother knelt at the bedside of her boy, and was embraced despite the bullet wound that pained him when he moved.

"Never mind, mother," the youth told her, "I know why you did it and that bullet made a man of me."

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

A jolly bicycle ride was given by a party of young Lincoln people for Misses Daisy and Amy Greenebaum of Burlington, Ia., Miss Lotta Strauss of Denver and Miss Harriet Brucks or New York.

D. E. Thompson made arrangements to take a large number of the children of the city to the Omaha exposition, who could not afford to pay for the trip.

The maximum temperature for the day in Lincoln was 100. It was the hottest place in the country with the exception of Huron, S. D.

Miss Emily Metcalf Perkins returned from Chicago to resume her duties as instructor at the university school of music.

The sick soldiers who had just returned from Chicakmauga were making a vigorous kick about the way they had been treated at the hospital and in quarters.

The two cowboys who killed Detective Malone's horse and stirred up such a sensation in North Lincoln were still at large.

Directors of the Coco Cola company declared a quarterly dividend of $1.75 on common stock payable October 1.

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With Othine—Double Strength

This preparation for the treatment of freckles is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.—Advertisement.

Does your oil gauge deceive you?

plenty of oil doesn't always mean proper lubrication

WITH your pressure oil gauge showing plenty of oil and full operation, there may be little or no lubrication taking place.

All depends on the kind of motor oil you are using. Two qualities it must possess if it is to protect your motor—first, proper fluidity under all conditions—second, resistance to decomposition at the normal operating heat of the motor.

Polarine flows freely at all temperatures. It has remarkable heat resistance and maintains a protective, cushioning film of oil under all operating conditions. With the right grade of Polarine, you can be sure that when your gauge shows plenty of oil it means proper lubrication.

Polarine is made in five grades to suit all makes of motors—light, medium, heavy, special heavy and extra heavy. Five grades, but one unsurpassed quality.

Consult the Polarine Chart. Standardize on the Polarine grade suited to your motor and you will cut down motoring expense. Sold where you see this sign.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

City Engineer Contends Construction Company Made Departure From Specifications.

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Aug. 30.—A deadlock is on between city officials over settlement with the Tyner Construction company of Kansas City, for paving done on the first street district in 1918, which City Engineer Bennison declares, showing samples to prove his contention, that there was a material departure to the detriment of the property holder. The committee on streets and alleys has requested the engineer to proceed with the settlement on the basis of making repairs, while Mayor Ellsbury has ordered no action taken until further information and consideration can be had.

CROP YIELDS NEAR HEMINGFORD

Wheat Averages 51 to 58 Pounds to the Bushel.

HEMINGFORD, Neb., Aug. 30.—The following yields are reported from the first threshing in this vicinity: Carl Hucke, 70 bushels of oats per acre; Joseph Carter, 55 bushels of oats per acre; Ben Price, 50 bushels of oats per acre, Lee Roland, 66 bushels of oats per acre, 27 bushels of wheat per acre; Carl Rader, 28 bushels of wheat per acre, 40 bushels of oats per acre; John Utterbach, 60 bushels of oats per acre; E. M. Ringer, 20 bushels of wheat per acre; Anton Ustahol, 20 bushels of wheat per acre, 42 bushels of barley per acre; William Moehnert, 20 bushels of wheat per acre, 57 bushels of oats per acre.

Wheat is averaging 51 to 58 pounds to the bushel and oats around 38 pounds to the bushel. These yields will represent about the average of wheat, oats and barley.

Wheat is bringing 50 cents a bushel for spring milling, 70 cents for Black Amber durum, 25 cents for oats, 50 cents for rye and 40 cents for barley.

The first cars of Early Ohio potatoes are being bought by local dealers at $1. per bushel sacked. They are machine sorted, Hemingford standard grade potatoes, which amounts to grade No. 2, containing about 75 per cent of No. 1.

FAIRBURY PIONEERS PASS AWAY

Mrs. George Turner and Mrs. Hattie Yantz Early Settlers.

FAIRBURY, Neb., Aug. 30.—With the passing of Mrs. George Turner, eighty-five years old, and Mrs. Hattie Yantz, eighty-two years old, Fairbury loses two of its pioneer citizens. George H. Turner passed away in 1911. The Turner family located here in 1873. Mr. Turner was engaged in the mercantile business and later served as county treasurer. The Yantz family came in 1879, homes reading near Bower moving to Fairbury eight years later. Mrs. Turner is survived by a son, Plato, of this place, and Mrs. Yantz by a son, Calvin, of this place.

BRIEF STATE NEWS.

Nebraska City—Mrs. Laura Pollard, aged seventy-four, and a resident of the home of her brother in law, James Matthews here after a year's illness.

Nebraska City—Adam Shellinger, post No. 8 American Legion has rented a building on Ninth street, to be used as a club room and meeting place for the post until such time as a permanent home can be secured.

Nebraska City—Clyde M. McClaskey, born in Nebraska City forty-five years ago, but who has not been here for the past thirty years, is visiting relatives and boyhood friends in the city.

Nebraska City—Arrest and fining of Ned Overton of Omaha $200 for possession and transportation of liquor started a flood of litigation. Mr. Overton had no money to pay his fine and was sent to jail. His attorney, T. E. Dunbar, has commenced habeas corpus proceedings for his release. Another attorney, O. Leidigh, has begun replevin proceedings against the city for possession of the car in which he was riding and where a gallon of liquor was found.

Columbus—Mrs. Effie Anderson has applied to the district court for a divorce from T. R. Anderson on grounds of non-support. They were married at Cheyenne, Wyo., April 12, 1920.

Blue Springs—Monday the American livestock improvement association shipped a car containing twenty head of fancy hogs to three prominent farmers, E. E. Chamberlain, Leo Long and Elmer Walker of this vicinity. Tuesday when the car arrived on the Burlington tracks here, it contained twenty-six head, by the addition of a litter of six little pigs. Each farmer claims the increase.

Wymore—Frederick Litty, former Wymore lad, now living in Kansas City, where his father, F. L. Litty, is a dentist, has been appointed to the United States naval academy, at Annapolis, Md., and left for that place Tuesday.

Nebraska City—Nen Sheldon, a farmer living in the Percival, Ia., district, was probably disfigured for life when he was kicked in the face by one of his horses. He stooped down behind one of the animals and frightened it. It kicked him in the face with both feet.

Nebraska City—Mrs. A. O. Jamison, wife of a pilot of a commercial aeroplane that was making flights here today, was suddenly taken ill while in the machine about 1,000 feet above the ground, and the plane was forced to land and secure medical attention for her. She was found to be suffering with heart trouble, caused by the altitude, but after a short rest seemed all right, and was sent to her home in Chicago by train. Her husband continued his journey by air to a point in Wyoming where he was to give an exhibition flight.

Fairbury—The second annual Jefferson county Sunday school picnic was held at the Fairbury park Wednesday with an attendance of about 3,000. An interesting program was given. Dr. A. A. Brooks, pastor of the Trinity M. E. church of Lincoln, delivered the principal address.

Republican City, Neb., Aug. 30.—Several carloads of new wheat have been shipped from the elevators here in the last two weeks. The average yield in this vicinity is reported to be a little over five bushels per acre, the quality being poor on account of black rust. While other communities are predicting that their acreage of winter wheat put in this year will be smaller than normal, in this vicinity the farmers plan to drill in more wheat than usual, unless weather conditions should be unfavorable.

Red Cloud—Raymond Koontz, a farmer residing four miles west of this city, is minus a Ford coupe, thieves having broken into his garage Tuesday night. He reported his loss to the authorities early the next morning but no trace of it has been found.

Farmers' Union Picnic.

NELSON, Aug. 30.—The Nuckolls county farmers' union held its fourth annual picnic at Harbine park near here Tuesday. State President C. J. Osborne gave the principal address.

TO BUILD NEW STATION

Material and Workmen Ready to Begin Work On Burlington Depot at Wymore.

HUBBELL, Neb., Aug. 30.—Several carloads of material and a gang of railway carpenters and other workmen, are on the ground here this morning preparatory to starting the new Burlington depot, replacing the one which burned down early in May. Since that time this town has had a passenger coach and a box car for a depot. The new building will be 24 by 60 feet.

It will be double walled and padded similar to a refrigerator, and will be built so a loaded platform truck can be run right in and stored without unloading. The new structure will cost over $7,000 and is expected to be finished by early winter. The old depot was built here when the road came through in 1881.

FIND UNIDENTIFIED BODY

Man About Sixty Years Old Floating in Missouri River—Had Been in Water About Week.

OMAHA, Aug. 30.—The body of an unidentified man about sixty years old was found floating in the Missouri river late Wednesday by Charles Sindelar, a fisherman. The body had been in the water about a week.

TWO ARRESTED AT BEATRICE

County Officials Holding Pair for Kansas Officials.

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 30.—Two strangers giving the names of Smith and Connelly, were lodged in the county jail here today. They were surprised while in the office of Dr. Rice, over the Hinds State bank at Odell Tuesday evening. One of the men escaped, but was later recaptured.

FIND BLOOD STAINED AUTO

Car Stolen From Omaha Man Abandoned After Accident.

OMAHA, Aug. 30.—A blood stained automobile, overturned in a ditch near Seventy-second and Howard streets was found by farmers last night. The car, owned by J. W. Bell, had been stolen Tuesday night. Indications are that its occupant was thrown thru the windshield.

Plans for Franklin Fair.

FRANKLIN, Neb., Aug. 30.—The officers of the fair, to be held September 11 to 14 inclusive, have about completed their plans. The exhibits in some lines, particularly swine, promise to be greatly increased. Last year the old barn was not large enough and a new one of twenty-six pens was built. A large tent has been secured to care for the expected exhibit this year. The poultry house will be completely filled. The educational department will be above the ordinary and a school children's parade is planned.

Two silver loving cups are to be given to the champion baby of each sex. Classifications nearly like those of the state fair will be followed. Something new is being tried out in securing home talent plays by the high schools of Bloomington and Franklin in place of the usual stock companies.

Ball games, band and vocal music, with other usual entertainment added to "Gunpowder," and a couple of typical southern darkies in trick performances will insure plenty of fun for the crowd. The races will all be amateur chariot races with mule teams, horses and mixed teams. Relay races for both men and women and other races besides the attempts to ride the trick Ford car being made will be well worth seeing.

Brock Schools Open Monday.

BROCK, Neb., Aug. 30.—The Brock consolidated schools will open next Monday. Following is the teaching force: Superintendent, M. A. Sams; principal, B. L. Yost; normal training, Veva Adams; English and history, Ruby Bliss; grades, Jesse Jarman, Mamie Reeve, Maurine Sams, Leora Davis, Elmetta Dickerson, Edith Clark, Rosetta Schaefer, Marshall Lockwood.

SNOW-WHITE PIGS A FAD.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 30—"The Playground of America" is literally packed with visitors, who will remain until after the beauty pageant, September 5, 6, and 7. The season is now at its zenith. Canes have been discarded and the woman with the staff is having prominence. It was considered sensational when debs made their appearance leading monkeys, but the latest is the pig. Several young society ladies have acquired little, snow-white porkers. Dressed with a bow around its neck, the pig trots along beside its fair owner.

WHALING DAYS REVIVED AT NANTUCKET

Scenes and personages of a century ago were revived in the annual main street fete and pageant for the benefit of the Nantucket, Mass., hospital. Nantucket then was one of America's largest whaling ports. The group of women representing women of old Nantucket were: Sarah S. Macy, Ellen K. Judkins and Lucretia Gardner. A. F. Musgrave impersonated the old town crier.

OMAHA WATER IMPROVES

May Be Good Enough to Drink Now, But Pinto Advises That It Be Boiled.

OMAHA, Aug. 30.—"The water has shown so much improvement in the last twenty-four hours that I believe I will be able to lift the ban soon," Dr. A. S. Pinto, city health commissioner said today.

"Altho the water may be good enough to drink direct from the faucet now, it is better to boil it.

"I expect to issue the orders lifting the ban on Friday and they will be effective Saturday."

OPERATION AFTER FORTY YEARS

Wyoming Man's Arm Troubles Long Time After Accident.

OMAHA, Aug. 30.—More than forty years ago, Claude L. Talbott, veteran chief brand inspector for Wyoming, sustained a broken forearm while riding the range. Being many miles from a doctor the arm was never set properly and the wrist joint was consequently much enlarged.

This morning at an Omaha hospital, Talbott was operated on for an infected arm and probabilities were that the arm would be removed. The arm did not trouble Talbot until about a year ago.

JOHNNY KERNS PASSES AWAY

"Gentleman" Saloonkeeper Had a Place at Fourteenth and Farnam.

OMAHA, Aug. 30.—Johnny Kerns, veteran Omaha saloon keeper, died here last night. Kerns, who operated a saloon at Fourteenth and Farnam streets before prohibition, was nationally known as the proprietor of the "gentleman's saloon."

He boasted that he sold nothing but "good liquor" and his place was the headquarters for thirsty business men and theatrical people.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

Women Tell Each Other How They Have Been Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Perrysburg, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my sides all the time. I can't remember just how long I suffered, but it was for some time. One day I was talking with a lady I met on a car, and I told her how I was feeling and she said she had been just like I was with pains and nervous troubles, and she took the Vegetable Compound, and it cured her. So then I went and got some, and I certainly recommend it for it is good. Whenever I see any woman who is sick I try to get her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ADA FRICK, Route 3, Perrysburg, Ohio.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

The Way the Anxious Vigil Ended.

THE vagaries of one's brain defy any analysis. I have contemplated this truth many times, but never have I had it borne in upon me more forcibly than in the three hours of my vigil over Junior which followed Katherine's watch of an equal time after we had fought and conquered his terrorizing attack of croup.

While Katherine was watching and I was supposed to be sleeping, I had been unable to get to sleep until nearly half of my alloted time was over. Yet now that I was supposed to be wakeful, it seemed an absolute impossibility to hold my eyes open. I tried every device I knew, and finally by sheer will power succeeded—so well, indeed, that when it was time for Katherine to waken I was as wide awake as I ever had been in my life.

It was a pity to awaken her, I thought, and though I feared her displeasure, I decided to continue my vigil a little longer, at least until Junior should waken. But almost on the stroke of the hour she had named, Katherine opened her eyes and looked at me with a comprehending grin.

"Smarty! Smarty!" she quoted. "Thought you wouldn't invite me again to this party, didn't you? You forget that I have trained myself to waken almost on the minute I set in my own mind. But I don't tell everybody that. It's a trade secret, so don't give it away."

"I'm on the Job Now."

"But there isn't the slightest reason for you to get up now," I protested even as I marvelled again at the bright cheeriness of her face. wondered again if I had dreamed her unguarded betrayal of misery when she thought I was sound asleep. Yet the echo of her low wail: "Oh! God! my empty arms!" seemed yet to echo in the corner of the room. And when I looked into her eyes I fancied that I saw the strain behind the bravery, and decided that I had not been mistaken after all, and that she was hiding real heartbreak behind the cheery mask to which she had accustomed us.

"Nor is there any reason for me to sleep when it's my trick, either," she said, and then Mother Graham's voice, crisp, efficient, yet low-toned, sounded from the doorway. She was fully-dressed, carefully-coiffured and fairly radiated capability.

"Please remember, girls, that I'm on the job now," she said with decision, and Katherine, raising herself on one elbow, smiled indulgently at her.

Katherine's Directions.

"If you'll promise to waken me when Junior awakes," she said, "I'll take another snooze. He must have an alcohol rub after all this perspiring, and it is very important, as you know, not to let him get chilled this morning."

Her voice expressed the utmost deference to the elder woman and Mother Graham—in Dicky's parlance—"ate it up."

"Of course I'll promise," she said, "but what about Margaret? She looks worn out."

"I was just coming to that." Katherine replied with a mischievous look at me. "She is to be exiled, for bed, or breakfast or both, whichever she wishes. But she is to get herself away from here at once."

I smothered the unworthy pique which is the thing mothers have to fight when other hands than their own care for their children, and smiled back at my friends.

"I couldn't sleep if I tried, now," I said, "so I'm going to take a quick shower, a cup of coffee and a brisk walk. By the time I come back, perhaps Junior will be awake."

"No doubt he will," Katherine drawled, "and you'll be able to see that we haven't amputated any of his fingers or toes." But her eyes were tender, and I knew that her raillery hid comprehending sympathy with my feeling.

"You'd better produce the full complement," I threatened, and then turned to my mother-in-law. "Is Katie up, do you happen to know?"

"Up!" she ejaculated. "I should think she is! She has breakfast all ready. I've just had mine, and when you go down tell her to keep thin s hot for Mrs. Bickett until she comes. Or would you like a tray now?" She turned to Katherine solicitously.

"I want nothing but another snooze," Katherine said drowsily, as she turned over and thumped her pillow into shape. "I'm not a bit hungry and any time this morning will do for my breakfast. So long, Madge. Say good morning to the cows for me."

YOUR HEALTH

What to Feed Baby After You've Weaned Him

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

MANY mothers write to me asking what kind of food should be given after the weaning of the baby.

It is too bad, for any reason whatever, to be forced to wean the baby until the heat of the Summer and early Fall have passed. If proper precautions are taken in the care of the food the time of year does not matter. Late September and early October are particularly favorable, because the nights are cool and the milk and other food are less likely to spoil than they are in extremely hot weather.

It must be remembered that every food, every drink, everything given the baby must be absolutely fresh. There must not be the slightest suspicion of taint. Food cooked or prepared the day before is not the kind you want your baby to have.

Milk readily takes the flavor of other food in the icebox. This contamination may upset the delicate stomach of a tiny baby. On this account, no matter what may be the time of year, the baby's milk should be kept in a separate compartment of the refrigerator and right against the ice

I assume that the breast-fed baby has been given orange juice, prune juice or possibly tomato juice, at least once a day. Continue this laudable practice when weaning is begun.

For the first few months there must be as many meals as there were feedings before weaning. Let us see if we can arrange a schedule.

Begin with orange, tomato or prune juice at 7:30 or 8 o'clock in the morning.

Half an hour later give the first meal. This will consist of a strained cereal—hominy, oatmeal or one of the fine-grained wheat cereals. Two tablespoonfuls of the cereal will be about right for a baby ten months or a year old.

Eight ounces of milk should be supplied for this meal. Half of it can be added to the cereal and the balance is taken from a cup.

A little dry toast or zwieback completes the ingredients of what may be called breakfast.

At 10 o'clock, six or eight ounces of milk will make the second meal.

At 12 or 12:30 a cupful of broth, a tablespoonful of baked potato, with a little butter; a coddled or soft-boiled egg and a piece of toast or zwieback, with four ounces of milk will make a pretty substantial midday meal.

It is well to vary this meal, omitting the egg every second day. It may be replaced by a small portion of strained vegetable, for instance peas or carrots, or by a custard.

The 3 o'clock meal is like the 10 o'clock and the 5:30 meal is like breakfast, with the addition of junket or blanc mange.

If the baby awakens at 8 o'clock or a little later, a drink of milk may be supplied.

Between meals give a drink of cooled, boiled water.

This diet is sufficient and can be continued for four or six months. Then more substantial food may be given.

Answers to Health Questions.

X. Y. Z. Q.—What is the cause of cramps in my limbs, from my knees to my ankles?

2.—Kindly advise me about——?

A.—This may be due to fallen arches, or rheumatism. However, an examination by an orthopedist will determine whether or not it is necessary for you to wear arch supports.

2.—Kindly send a self-addressed, stamped envelope, restating your question, and full particulars will be given.

* *

D. F. P. Q.—I am a girl 14 years of age, 4 feet, 3 inches tall. Will you kindly tell me what my correct weight should be?

A.—For your height you should weigh about 98 pounds.

* * *

A CONSTANT READER. Q.—My little boy two years old has exceedingly large tonsils. He also has a cast in one eye. Do you think he is too young to have treatment for these troubles?

A.—No, the child is not too young to have treatments for the conditions you mention. Take him to an eye and throat specialist, or to a hospital clinic, and follow whatever advice the physician gives you.

* * *

E. M. R. Q.—I have been wearing spectacles which are round in shape and lately had a pair of nose-glasses made from the same prescription, but oval in shape. I can see just as well with the nose-glasses but they seem to give me a headache after taking them off. Does the shape of the glasses have any effect on the eyes?

A.—I would suggest that you consult your oculist to find out whether your glasses need to be changed. Wear the glasses most suitable to your eyes.

Good Night Stories

DOTTY FINDS A BEAUTIFUL MERMAID'S NECKLACE.

DOTTY'S face cleared when she spied her little elfin friend, Squeedee, peeking at her from the window-sill.

"I knew you needed help," he laughed, jumping down and running up to her side, "so I didn't wait for you to wish for me. I just made it my business to come right in. Gracious me, I wouldn't feel that way about it! Your mama will get you the pretty necklace she promised."

"Yes, but I wanted to pick it out myself," laughed Dotty.

"Of course, you did," Squeedee laughed merrily. That reminds me. I was sent out to get one of the mermaids' necklaces. Gracious! I had almost forgotten. Come along with me and help me pick it out."

And before Dotty could even ask where he was going, she found herself standing with Squeedee on the very bottom of the ocean.

"Goodness me!" she laughed. "So this is where we're to hunt the mermaid's necklace, Squeedee! What in the world is that thing floating in the water? It looks like a necklace." And Dotty pointed to a queer, gay-colored thing that looked like the wings of a butterfly joined together in the centre.

In the very centre of the widest end, there ran out a flimsy, chain-like thread, and on this were strung about seventy bead-like things,

"It Looks Like a Necklace."

From each bead-like ornament there dangled through the water a silken thread that shone like silver.

"Sure enough," said Squeedee, and he jumped on a stone and waved at the queer creature. "Ho, ho, Mrs. Cup-bearer Jellyfish."

The queer necklace turned its course and swam through the water toward Squeedee and he introduced it to Dotty.

"I wondered what you were doing down here," Mrs. Cup-bearer Jellyfish laughed. "At first, I thought you had come to get me."

"Not to get you," laughed the elfin, "but to ask if you would twine yourself around the neck of the queen of the mermaids at the ball to-night. Then, too, I wanted Dotty to see a real sea-necklace."

"I'm glad my swimming cups look like a necklace," laughed Mrs. Cup-bearer Jellyfish. "I don't know how I'd ever get along without them. They help me through the water. I can draw in every one of those silken threads into those little cups when I want to." And she quickly pulled in every thread and laughed at the queer expression that came into Dotty's eyes. "Some necklace, I'll say," she laughed merrily.

Something tickled Dotty's nose. She sneezed and opened her eyes.

There stood her mother, dangling a beautiful pearl necklace over her nose.

My, how her mother laughed when Dotty told her about the mermaid's necklace.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a school girl of nearly eighteen years of age and I am madly in love with a man two years my senior. I'm sorry but my love is a silent one and thus my love's heavy burden is increased tenfold.

He looks at me often and as my best girl friend says, very intently. I think, hope and am almost sure he likes me.

I spoke to him once for another girl friend of mine, giving him a message from her and I noticed, and couldn't help noticing, how nice he acted to me. Also, whenever he was speaking to a special girl friend of his how rude he acted to her, to watch me go by. He doesn't speak, as he is of a very bashful nature, to a girl that he doesn't know very well.

Please, Annie Laurie, tell me what I can do in more ways than one to break this bridge of silent love for his benefit maybe and also mine. IRISH-BUDDY.

IRISH-BUDDY: Ask your girl friend to introduce you to the young man. Then invite him to call on you at your home. This is the proper way to start a friendship with him.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a girl of eighteen. I have been going with a young man for two years. He is eight years my senior. He loves me and wants me to marry him, but I don't love him. He knows I don't love him, but he thinks I will learn to. He is very nice and my mother likes him. Should I marry him when I don't love him? Am I too young to marry?
BOBBED BRUNETTE.

BOBBED BRUNETTE: Do not marry the young man unless you love him. I suggest that you tell him that you value his friendship and you want to keep it, but cannot agree to marry him now. You are young and it may be that you will learn to love him.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:
I am a high school girl of seventeen. I like a certain young man of nineteen. I always enjoy being in his company, but have my doubts about his liking my company.

Whenever any of the boys say anything about this young man going with me, I always say that he would rather go with other girls. But they inform me that he does not go with other girls and won't go places unless I am along.

This man, whom I like, never calls me up, although he knows I have a phone. I often see him [illegible]

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

How Mrs. Lucy Hutchinson Helped Hold a Castle.

THERE have been few periods of history more harrowing than that of the great Civil War in England during the seventeenth century, when the long conflict between the Parliamentarians, under Cromwell, and the Royalists, under Charles, took place. The records of this frightful war are written in the annals of history with the blood of thousands of Englishmen who gave their lives for what each thought was right.

In the town of Nottingham lived one of the heroes of this war—a woman—Mrs. Lucy Hutchinson.

Mrs. Hutchinson and her husband had rallied to the support of the Parliamentarians. In parliamentary affairs they took such an active interest that Mr. Hutchinson was honored with a commission of colonel. It fell to his lot to take command of the famous old Norman Castle of Nottingham.

As Governor of Nottingham Castle, Colonel Hutchinson soon saw that it was one of the strongholds the Royalist army would attack. He was sure of this because of the castle's strategic position and also because it was considered one of the centres of the followers of Cromwell.

With a great booming of cannon and a terrific onslaught by the well-trained, fully-equipped army of the King, the siege was started. For four years the Royalists kept up their efforts to capture the place.

All the while the gallant Governor Hutchinson was conducting the defense, his brave wife was with him—imprisoned for four long years with her children, servants and her husband's troops in the Castle of Nottingham.

Every day the cannons roared and huge shells burst through some newly-weakened wall of the noble old structure.

Every day many of Hutchinson's men fell—some fatally wounded and others disabled beyond usefulness.

There was much suffering and misery in Nottingham Castle in those dark days. The only sunlight which entered the fortress was that brought by the bright smiles of Mrs. Hutchinson.

Not only did she furnish food for the soldiers and nurse those who were in pain, but she actually acted as a surgeon in many instances—and with marked success.

The diary Mrs. Hutchinson kept gives us a vivid idea of the almost insurmountable difficulties with which she coped.

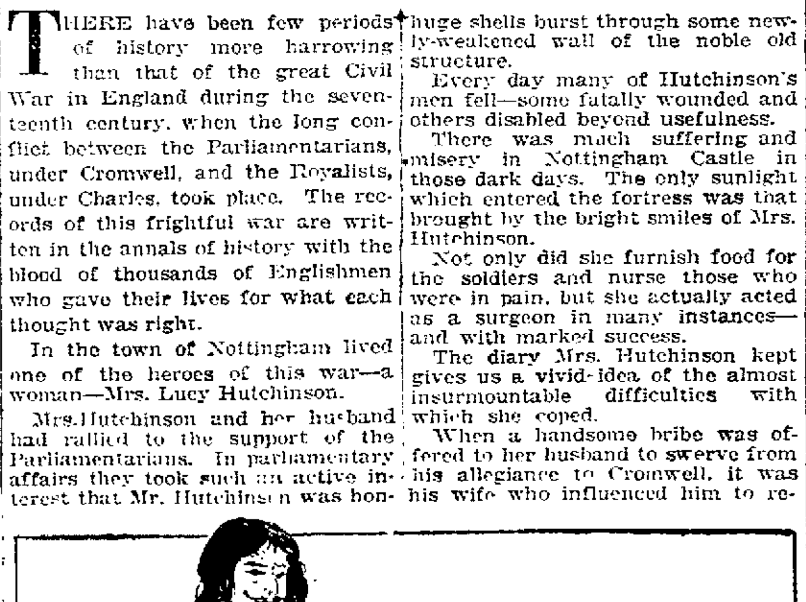

When a handsome bribe was offered to her husband to swerve from his allegiance to Cromwell, it was his wife who influenced him to remain true to his cause, although the penalty should prove great.

When the Royalists sent word to the Colonel to meet them and discuss terms, it was Lucy Hutchinson who helped him unfurl the flag of the people from the turret and fire the cannon announcing their defiance. And they were successful in withstanding the enemy until peace was declared.

When the Stuarts ascended to the throne after Cromwell's death and the war was over, Colonel Hutchinson was cast into prison in Sandown Castle.

It was announced that he was to pay with his life for the part he had taken in the great civil war. His wife was prostrated. But to her husband she never gave a sign of her grief and terror.

To the very last minute—just before his execution, she was her husband's advisor and comforter—just as she had been during the long siege of Nottingham Castle.

Sometimes Mrs. Hutchinson Served as a Surgeon.

Suggestions for Fascinating Hand Work.

THE old-fashioned girl who tatted in season and out, and the perpetual knitter of not so long ago had nothing on the modern woman who is crazy on the subject of hand work. This craze started, perhaps, because of the charm and high prices of hand-made French underwear. Every woman wanted these fascinating "undies," so if she could not afford to buy, it was obvious that she must make them. And she went at it with a will.

When women discovered how clever they were at making the dainty things, they branched out and now the home is being decorated in the most unexpected manner. Attractive spreads long enough to cover pillows and all are made of a coarse quality of unbleached muslin. Hems are hemstitched all around, then in some instances a flounce of heavy lace finishes the hem. In the centre there is often a wreath of flowers done in appliqued linens. Each flower is embroidered in its natural color and the flowers are couched on with a coarse buttonhole-stitch done in leaf-green floss. Sometimes the centre is embroidered with a large scroll pattern in coarse colored or white linen floss. The so-called "stemstitch" is used for this purpose.

Another version of the cotton spread is a patchwork-border top and bottom about two and a half feet deep. The white squares have a colored flower embroidered in the centre and the other squares in checked gingham have a centre pattern in a cross-stitch the color of the block in the plaid. The squares are featherstitched together onto the white centre of the spread. The edge in this case is simply hemstitched above a two-and-a-half-inch hem. In some instances, the spread has an embroidered vine above the hem or a vine appliqued according to the centre-work used.

Many women are buying the material in all-white that comes for making the famous Dolly Madison spreads.

They work the color stripes between the puffed stripes of the material to match the room in which the spread is to be used.

It costs a lot to have household linen embroidered with initials, so women are doing it themselves. Napkins especially are being initialed as "pick-up" work on summer porches. This gives the linen the personal touch desired and the owners think the time well spent in the work. Initials are generally done in white, though occasionally in blue, pink, lilac or leaf green. Yellow is not apt to wash as well, so it is not considered as frequently as the old reliable colors.

Embroidering linens to match the decorations on china is a foreign idea that is being adopted here. The woman who is an art student finds little difficulty in drawing off the designs, but a woman who is not an adept will if she is wise take a dish to a professional and have her make the transfer.

The new runners and tray cloths now follow the shape of the sideboard or table on which they are to lie, or the tray which they are to cover. The old rectangular, round and square shapes won't do in all cases and the new designs are a welcome change. A great deal of linen in natural color and fine so-called butchers' linen is used for this work.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Smartly-Colorful Daytime Frock.

"IT'S wonderful what a deft touch of the right trimming can do to make a frock 100 per cent attractive," Gaby remarked to me.

"What are you driving at now?" I asked good-humoredly, for I knew she had some particular frock in mind.

"I was thinking of that smart Miss Hopper, who always wears such stunning clothes," she replied.

"She does seem to have a happy faculty for picking things that suit her to perfection," I agreed.

"And she dresses so simply, too," Gaby added.

"Simple things always show up in a crowd. There are so many over-trimmed costumes in the average crowd," I remarked.

Gaby smiled, for she knew this was a pet hobby of mine.

"Miss Hopper makes some of her own things," Gaby told me. "She saves in that way, and then she can afford to come to Madame's occasionally and buy an expensive frock of the kind she couldn't make herself."

"Has she been here recently?" I asked.

"Just left," Gaby enlightened me. "I was impressed by the trimming of her frock, and you've no idea what a minute detail of the frock the trimming was," she said.

"I'm waiting to be enlightened," I returned eagerly.

"Well, it was brass buttons on orange jersey," Gaby said.

"Had she made the frock herself?" I asked.

"That she had, and it looked like a million dollars on her," Gaby returned. "It was simply an over-blouse of jersey bound in the same material and worn with a jersey skirt, finely pleated," she explained.

"And where were the brass buttons?" I asked.

"There were so few of them you'll wonder I noticed them at all, and they were very tiny, but they did give an ultra-smart touch to that outfit," Gaby said with a reminiscent air.

"There was a narrow inset of the jersey at each hip, where the material was gathered so the blouse could fit the figure snugly," she explained. "On each narrow side were six tiny brass buttons."

"Sounds lovely and so like Miss Hopper," I answered. "What did she get to-day?"

"A lovely evening frock, with layers and layers of petaled chiffon in pale green," Gaby answered. "Said she hated to make things like that, and she'd made all her sports clothes this season, so she deserved to treat herself to an evening frock."

"She has such lovely brown hair, and the coloring that looks equally well with orange and yellow and all those smart shades of the season," I said.

"Oh, I'm forgetting to tell you about her hat," Gaby started out again.

I raised an eyebrow and waited expectantly and she proceeded to explain.

"It was a yellow cloche and the unusual part again was the trimming," she said. "Narrow brown velvet was looped from an oblong of solid velvet that hardly showed, but the loops dropped off the side of the hat, all different lengths of them."

"It gives me an idea for my next hat," I said to myself.

Tomorrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

FRIDAY, AUGUST 31.

An unusually busy and pleasant day may be read from this day's sidereal movements. The luminaries in trine aspect, as well as Mars and Venus under similar propitious aspect, presage prosperous conditions in all manners of activities, with fortunate developments in employment and business transactions involving growth and financial increase. In social, domestic and romantic concerns, the lunar trine to Venus forecasts all that is happy and propitious.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a happy and prosperous year, with benefits and promotion in employment where it is undeniably deserved and expansion in business. Home and heart conditions are under the best of auguries for happiness and prosperity. A child born on this day should be popular and much respected and should rise rapidly in life, making a success of its undertakings. It will be happy in its domestic relations.

POPULATION GROWTH IS TO BE SOLUTION

Noted Economist Speaks on Agricultural Situation at Meeting of Joint Stock Land Bank Association in Chicago.

W. E. Barkley who is attending the meeting of the American Association of Joint Stock Land Banks in Chicago has sent extracts of an address by Dr. L. C. Gray, economist in the United States department of agriculture Wednesday.

In regard to the present agricultural situation, Dr. Gray said:

"As the stars in their courses fought against Sisera, so the silent forces of population growth are working to aid American agriculture to conquer the bridge which leads from depression to prosperity.

"Bankers," said the speaker, "who are engaged in making loans on the security of farm land to be amortized over a period of several decades are necessarily concerned not only with the immediate prospects of agriculture but also with the long-time outlook." Dr. Gray emphasized the point that in spite of the present depression involving low prices and the liquidation of excessive land values, the longer outlook is more optimistic.

The high point in the supply of crop and pasture land in proportion to population was reached several decades ago. For nearly two decades before the close of the recent war the area of crop and pasture land in proportion to population was decreasing. Dr. Gray pointed out that there has been no such reversal. The per capita area of crop and pasture land is less than in 1909.

"How then," the speaker said, "may we explain the large increase in the American export surplus?" He showed that this increase is not due to an increase in the average productiveness of crop land, for there has been no increase in average yield of land in nine principal crops in the past two decades. The increased surplus has been made available mainly by a reduction in the per capita area of crop and pasture land employed in maintaining beef cattle and horses.

As a result, the physical exports of farm products, and particularly of wheat and rye, are much larger than in the years preceeding the war, but it is a mistake to attribute price depression to a sudden change in the volume of exports.

Doctor Gray called attention to the fact that the wartime increase of wheat acreage in Canada and the United States was very largely caused by the expansion into new farming areas where there is practically no substitute money crop.

The most important factor working for a restoration of normalcy in prices is the increase in population. It is estimated that the increase of world population is about twenty millions a year. The continuance of this rate of increase even for four or five years might exert a marked influence toward restoring cereal prices.

Our own population is likely to increase at the rate of a million a year.

"This new economic epoch which we are aproaching,' said Dr. Gray, "will not necessarily be a Golden Age either for the American farmer or the nation as a whole, for it will bring its peculiar problems and difficulties, including the necessity of greater economy in the use of natural resources. Some would hasten its coming by throwing down the bars to foreign emigrants. This policy might appear temporarily to promise a better domestic market for farm products and to supply the extra laborers for which our industries are clamoring." However the speaker believed that the temporary benefits are less than they appear and that the long-time results will be distinctly detrimental to national welfare.

Dear Mary Gordon: I have a friend who is always making terrific drains upon all her friends. Someone is always deceiving her, or talking about her, or something unlucky is always happening. Now she does have quite a bit of bad luck, but it is no worse than anyone else's, and wouldn't be half so bad if she didn't always exaggerate it.

I am in such a position that I cannot very well drop her, because she is my sister-in-law. I know that there is no way by which I can bring her "exaggerated sense of ego" to normal. She loves to be the center of the stage and for that purpose makes tragedy more a habit than a reality.

For a long time I thought she really had a more dramatic life than mine. But as my little family arrived one by one, and measles, whooping cough, stubbed toes and burnt fingers became more or less common, I found my sister-in-law's reaction to the same things in her own family. I found she always expected sympathy, even tho I was going thru the identical crisis myself. I do not mind—indeed I am eager—to pay the price of friendship when anything real is at stake. I can feel for my friends, and give lavishly of sympathy, but I grow tired of staying on the heights with them all of the time. I like to come down to commonplace once in a while.—Dubious.

A. When I hear of a person like that I think of the human fly who fell eight stories to his death in New York. Thousands of people shuddered at his fall. Three days later ten people attended his funeral.

Pitiful that only ten people should care enough for the man who had thrilled thousands, to see him buried? Perhaps, but again, what had he ever done to merit love? His close friends, his wife, his parents, realized that any minute he might be plunged to death. His calling was a constant drain on their nervous systems. His daring was in no good cause. It seemed useless, at best.

Genuine friends, as you say, are willing to pay the price when anything real is at stake. They will wait, watch, pray while you make a perilous journey, of necessity. They will go down to the valley of the shadow of death with you and walk with you thru the lonely gray hours of bereavement or sorrow or suffering, if the cause is real.

But there are people who are forever asking you to stand below and hold your breath while they scale the heights of some unnecessary danger or sit beside them and hold their hands while they revel in a tragedy more imagined than real.

They are always rushing to you with some great crisis which is more the result of some state of mind than of a cruel turn of fate. You get so you exclaim, "What's wrong with Mary now?" whenever you hear her footstep on the porch or see her handwriting on a letter. You realize that she is always hanging, figuratively speaking, by the eyelashes from the twenty-first story of a building or indulging in some other perilous plight of her own making.

That is not the way to make friends. They get tired of suffering with you when your sufferings are not real.

I am afraid there are more human flies among our friends than the poor, misguided flies themselves realize. They make life unnecessarily hard and dangerous just because they revel in the tragic. Human endurance is limited. And if you are that sort, what wonder that people grow tired and sometimes discount the really tragic moments of your life?

Dear Mary Gordon: I am tiard of hearing girls berated and abused for bobing their hair. I think it is such a nice, clean, healthy, care-free style, and I can't see eny sin or shame in it. The Bible does not record one place where Jesus said enything to the women how they should wear their hair. Only one man in all the Bible presumed to tell the women how to dress or wear their hair, which was all right in its time and place, but when I see a girl with a mop of long dirty, neglected hair I advise her to cut it off and wash her head.

I don't mean to cut it ridiculously short and then shave it behind her ears. That looks cruel to me to see children treated so, but perhaps it is better than filth and vermin which might otherwise accumulate, where mothers have several children to care for, and lots of other work to do. I am a Christian woman and would not advise enything to eny girl's harm; but I am tiard of hearing girls abused for wearing bobbed hair. I will sign my name—Christian.

A. One more friend for bobbed hair. Your reasons are good and there are a multitude of others.

Dear Mary Gordon: I have read many very interesting letters in your column. One young man asked how old you are, much to your dismay (that seems rather a "give-away") and now a child attempts to describe you—and a very lovely description it is, too.

But somehow as I read your answers, I cannot help but wonder if a description such as this would not fit you much better: Complexion, dark; hair, nearly black; age, about thirty-five years; height, about five feet eleven inches; weight, about 175 pounds; sex, masculine.

Pardon me if I seem too inquisitive, but I just couldn't help wondering. I really hope you will answer this very soon.—Sammie and Sue.

A. Did I sound dismayed when the young man asked my age? I really wasn't, because I think I am at the age when a woman should be at her best, and when she derives the most enjoyment from life. But he really needed to be told it is rude to ask one's age, didn't he?

If I were a man, I should like nothing better than to answer your description.

Dear Mary Gordon: We are two chums—fifteen and sixteen—writing you for some advice. We have steady beaus; two boys that we have known for a long time.

1.—Should we let these boys kiss us?

2.—Is it proper for a girl to go with a boy younger than herself.

3.—Should we go with these boys to the theater and other places in our home town?

4.—They are both very jealous. Should we disregard other boys' small attentions for them?

5.—Should we let these boys see that we care more for them than the others, or treat them all the same?

6.—Do you think we are foolish for liking these boys at our ages?—Chums.

A. 1.—No.
2.—Age doesn't matter.
3.—If your parents don't object.
4.—No, it is better to have several friends.
5.—Treat them all the same.
6.—No, it's all right to like them, but don't let that become an excuse for being silly and mushy.

The Doubtful Twins: At fourteen, you are too young to be running around with young men. Your aunt is perfectly right in refusing to allow you to dance, also.

Can't tell about the bobbed hair; if you are sure it will add to your attractiveness, go ahead and bob it.

Peach Snow.

Rub thru a sieve enough ripe, skinned peaches to make a cupful. Add one-half package of gelaine which has been soaked and dissolved, the juice and grated rind of lemon, a pinch of salt, and a few drops of vanilla. When cool, but not set, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Mold, chill and serve with whipped cream or custard.

Peach Ice.

Rug thru a sieve enough peeled peaches to make one pint of pulp and add twelve chopped almounds. Mix with four cups of thin syrup and freeze, adding the unbeaten white if an egg if desired.

Insurance Policy.

"You make me so angry!" stormed Mrs. Biggs after the company had left. "Why do you insist on sitting on the piano stool all evening? Everybody knows you can't play a note."

"Neither can anybody else while I'm sitting there," explained Mr. Biggs.—Legion Weekly.

PEOPLE YOU KNOW

The marriage of Miss Blanche Sedan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sedan of Benedict to Harold Hare of University Place was solemnized Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist church in University Place. Rev. W. B. Hamilton performed the ecremony in the presence of seventy-five guests. Preceeding the entrance of the bridal party Miss Dorothy Hare sang "At Dawning" and Dr. Guy Spencer sang "Because" and "O Promise Me." They were accompanied by Mrs. H. R. Esterbrook who also played the wedding march from Lohengrin. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Emmet Alton as matron of honor. She wore a gown of pale pink satin and carried a shower boquet of Russel roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Esther Johnson, Miss Hazel Barnett, Miss Dora Cromwell and Miss Helen Redcroft. All wore frocks of organdie in pastel shaes and carried arm bouquets of Russell roses. Little Marjorie Alton acted as flower girl and Frances Spencer carried the ring. The ushers were Wayne C. Farmer, Ivan Allen, Mr. Metcalf and Donald Harrington. The bride entered last. She wore a gown of white brocaded crepe and georgette made on long straight lines and her tulle veil was arranged in cap shape and held in place with a band of pearls. She carried a shower boquet of Ophelia roses. A reception in the church parlor followed the ceremony and after a wedding trip to Denver Mr. and Mrs. Hare will return to make their home in University Place where he is coach of athletics in the University Place high school. The out-of-town guests whroattended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sedan and MissAdelia Sedan, Benedict: Mrs. Emma Alton and Miss Marjorie Alton, Polk; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Petrea, Pawnee City; Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Ligget, Adams: Mrs. Joe Ligget, Smith Center, Kas.: Miss Ruth Moorman, Wayne Farmer, Mankato, Kas.

Four hundred guests attended the marriage of Miss Lena Readle of Ord to Rev. L. Dewey Burham of Lincoln which was solomized Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at Trinity Methodist church. Dr. A. A. Brooks performed the ceremony before an alter which was banked with ferns and golden rod. Preceeding the entrance of the bridal party Miss Lenore Burkett sang, "At Dawning" and Wilber Chenowith played the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bridal procession took their places. The usners, Ralph Burham and Henry Mueller entered first and were followed by the ribbon bearers, George and Billy Buhler. The two bridesmaids, Mrs. Joseph Duranske, in pale blue taffeta and Miss Velda Burham, wearing peach colored taffeta came next and were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Rena Readle, twin sister of the bride. She also wore pale blue taffeta and all carried arm bouquets of pink roses. The little ring bearer, Gene Buhler and the flower girls, Maxine Buhler and Lotus McMare, carrying baskets of roses came next and were followed by the bride who entered with her father. The bride's gown was of white satin, heavily beaded in pearls and her tulle veil was arranged in cap shape and held in place with a band of pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. A reception was given by the [illegible] church [illegible] after the ceremony and [illegible] [illegible]

Miss Margaret Harmon was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower given Wednesday evening by the Misses Hazel, Erma and Clara Johnston at their home, 140 South Thirtieth. Sixty-three guests were entertained with games and an informal musical program was given by Miss Ruth Oberlies and Miss Marjorie Little. The lawn was decorated with colored electric lights and toward the close of the evening the guests were invited to the garden where a huge rainbow was constructed and the bride found her gifts at the foot of the rainbow. Ice cream and cakes, carrying out the rainbow colors were served.

Mrs. George S. Hayes, formerly of Lincoln, passed away Sunday in New York, according to word received from Mr. Hayes by J. L. Teeters. The burial will be in Denver. Mrs. Hayes was Bertha Horlocker of Hastings before her marriage. The early years of her married life were spent at Hastings. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes moved to Lincoln between twenty and twenty-five years ago and formed a large circle of friends in the city before business interests took them to New York and later to South America. While in South America Mrs. Hayes contracted a lingering disease from which she had been suffering for several years before her death.

The marriage of Miss Helen Horn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Horn to Calvin L. Robbins was solemnized Thursday morning at 6 o'clock at St. Paul Methodist church. Rev. Walter Aitken officiated. The bride wore a suit o fnavy blue with hat to match. An informal reception and wedding breakfast for members of the two families followed at the home of the bride's parents, 533 South Eleventh. They will make their home in Lincoln at 433 South Twelfth. Mrs. Robbins was graduated from Lincoln high school with the class of 1922 and Mr. Robbins is connected with the Nebraska Printing company.

INCENDIARISM AT BROKEN BOW

State Inspector Finds Evidence in Boarding House.

Inspector L. J. Butcher for the state fire marshal's office investigated a fire in the boarding and rooming house of Mrs. Katie Ernest at Broken Bow and found evidence of incendiarism in four different places. He placed his evidence before the county attorney. The fire started at 1 o'clock on the morning of August 1. One blaze had been started in the basement around a furnace, another in the kitchen cupboard, another in a closet and the fourth one in the attic. The building was insured for $5,950 and the contents for $2,000. The loss on the building is estimated at $3,000 and at $500 on the contents. The roof of the house was burned off.

Herman Taylor of Merna, owner of a barber shop was arrested Wednesday and will have a preliminary hearing Friday. He is charged with complicity in setting fire to his shop. Raymond McCarty and Frank Crist are held on the same charge.

SILENT UPON WORLD COURT

INTERNATIONAL LAW COMMITTEE REFUSES TO REPORT.

American Bar Association Citizenship Committee Flays Indifference of Public to Social Conditions and Radicals.

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 30—The international law committee of the American Bar association convention today refused to obey instructions of the association to recommend amendments to the world court statutes making it possible for the United States to participate in the court

The committee, including Robert Lansing, former secretary of state, declared that the recommendations were not made because the world court has now become a subject of "political discussion which possibly may become more earnest and divergent as it proceeds."

George W. Wickersham, George Donworth and James Brown Scott of the committee, attached a joint statement to the report, saying that they were "unequivocally in favor of" American adhesion to terms which may be agreed to between the court and American officials.

The bar association last year, at the request of Chief Justice Taft of the United States supreme court, instructed the committee to recommend changes in the court that would permit United States participation.

Social conditions in the United States and activities of "radicals" were condemned today in a report by the citizenship committee.

The committee scored "gross indifference" of the public to the dangers of these conditions.

"During the last year conditions have not abated, but if anything has grown more pronounced and threatening,' 'the report said. "It is stated on competent authority that there are 1,500,000 radicals in this country who are clamoring for a change in the nature of our government to various degrees of a socialistic state. It is also said that $3,000,000 was spent during the last year for red propaganda."

Chief Justice William H. Taft of the United States supreme court submitted thirty-four recommendations for the conduct of men on the bench. He condemned "publicity hunting" by judges by imposition of unusually severe or lenient sentences.

The committee on international law urged the association to secure a new conference of nations to clarify the legal code

George W. Wickersham, attorney general under Taft, delivered the report. An accompanying statement signed by three members of the committee urged that the United States join an international court

Robert Lansing, former secretary of state, joined the committee in expressing need of the code conference.

A report from the committee of jurisprudence, recommending federal legislation to protect aliens from discriminatory state laws, was also considered.

Firpo Knows He Can Whip Jack but Not So Sure He Will

IN SIGNED STORY HE TELLS HIS CHANCES

South American Argues on Own Behalf, "Other Men Have Hit Dempsey and I Can Hit Harder Than They Did."

By Luis Angel Firpo.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 30.—I do not know just how many people there are in the United States, but I am sure that all of them want to know whether I think I will defeat Jack Dempsey. I am sure of that, because of them that I have met ask me that question. I would like to answer the question with a word, but it is a little difficult. I cannot say yes, and I cannot say no. Neither answer would be the truth.

I know that I can beat Jack Dempsey. That is much different from saying that I will beat him when we meet on September 14 at the Polo grounds in New York. When I say I know that I can beat him, I mean that I know I have a punch hard enough to knock him out if I hit him with it early enough in the fight in the right place.

Champions Are Only Human.

I know that Jack Dempsey is the champion of the world, and I am not such a big fool that I do not have respect for the champion of the world. But then, too, I am not such a big fool that I do not know that the champion of the world is a human being like anybody and I know that anyone who is a human being will be knocked out if I hit him in the proper place on the jaw with my rightfist.

Some people say to me that I will not be able to hit Jack Dempsey. I am sure that I will. All the good men who have fought Dempsey have been able to hit him. Jess Willard hit him, Bill Brennan hit him, Carpentier hit him. All of these men hit him on the jaw. None of these men could hit as hard as I can hit. If I hit Jack Dempsey where those men hit him I will knock him out.

I am afraid that if I speak the truth as I feel it, the American people will think that I am boasting. I do not want to boast. I do not feel like boasting. If I could make things as I would like to have them, I would take one more year before I would have a fight with Dempsey. After one more year I would have ten more fights. I would have more fighting generalship.

Has Fought Twenty Times.

I wish that all the North American people would remember that no man who has had as few fights as I have had has ever fought for the championship of the world. I have had ten fights in this country and ten fights in South America. That is all. If I could have more fights before I meet Dempsey I could be more sure that I would win. But I gave my word that I will fight when Mr. Rickard asked me and I kept my word. I do not know whether I will win, but I know that I can win and I hope and believe that I will.

I say that I do not know for certain whether I will win and that is the truth, but it may be before the fight I will know and if I know I will say so. Before I had the fight with Willard at Jersey City I did not know for certain whether I would win. Sometimes while I was training I thought maybe I would win. Mr. Willard had been champion of the world. He was a very big man. He was in good condition. I thought to myself sometimes that perhaps he was too big for me to hurt.

Waiting for That "Feeling."

And then one day I knew that I could whip him. As soon as that feeling came to me that he could not hurt me and I could knock him out, I told all my friends that I would win. I do not know how I knew, but I knew. Other times before I have fought that feeling has come to me and when that feeling comes I know I will win. If I have that feeling about Jack Dempsey I know I will win from him, then I will not say that I can win but that I will win. I do not have that feeling yet. If it comes to me I will say so, and if I say so I will win.

I try to speak the truth as I feel now. I think that I will win. I hope and believe that I will win. I will do my best and so far my best has been good enough, because I do one thing at one time and try to do that one thing well.

People ask me why I do not learn English. Some of them say that I am stupid because I do not try to learn English. I do not try to learn the language because I am busy fighting prize-fights and trying to win the championship of the world.

Do One Thing at Time.

While I am doing that I will not try to do anything else. Some day when I am not busy fighting, I will learn to speak English. When I try to learn I will learn. That is the only way I know how to do things. One thing at a time and that one thing my best. I do my best always in all things and always only one thing at a time.

LITTLE LESSONS IN TENNIS

What is the proper grip for the backhand drive?

Answered by

MANUEL ALONSO.

Famous Spanish player, easily the sensation of the 1923 tennis season. "Best European player today, possible world champion in 1924," says Tilden. Defeated Tilden in Illinois state championship match in July. Runnerup to Tilden in numerous 1923 matches, including national clay court championship.

Grip the racquet at the end, with the thumb across the handle but supporting it.

The handle of the racquet and the forearm must be in line, and you should be able to see just the edge of the racquet, neither one side nor the other.

I shift my grip as much as one quarter of a turn when changing from forehand to backhand, and hold my racquet loosely until I start the stroke, then tighten my grip.

CONKEY'S HITS HELP LINKS DEFEAT BLUES

League Leader's Backstop Gets a Homer and Three Doubles in Five Trips to Plate—Farnum Relieves Kutina.

BEATRICE, Neb., Aug. 29.—The Links pounded Kutina and Farnum for seven hits and five runs in the first inning of today's game and took the first of the series by a count of 8 to 4.

Cleveland led off with a triple, and scored on Tanner's double. Dye singled, sending Tanner to third. Tanner scored on Purdy's sacrifice and Conkey hit over the centerfield fence for a homer. Farnum replaced Kutina but three successive hits by Bondurant, Cleveland, and DeButch scored one more run. The Links scored two more in the fifth and one in the seventh.

Beatrice scored three runs in the sixth on four hits. Speaker led off with a circuit clout and after two had been retired, Schaefer doubled. McGrath singled and Farnum hit for two bases, scoring two more runs. Farnum hit one out of the park in the eighth for the Blue's fourth run. Darrough went the full route for the Links but got in several tight holes. Beatrice had the bases full in the third and seventh innings.

Conkey's hitting was the feature, the Lincoln catcher getting a home run and three two-baggers in five trips to the plate. Two of the two-baggers were on balls hit over the short left field fence. A ground rule gave the batter two bases on hits over this fence. Cleve hit safely three times in four times at bat. Quinn had nine assists and two putouts at short. His fielding was one of the features. The largest week day crowd of the season since the opening day witnessed the contest. Score:

FARRELL PICKS GREB TO WIN FROM WILSON

Expert Tacks on Conditional Clause Which Calls for Contender to Be in Shape for Title Bout Friday.

By Henry L. Farrell.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—No fight of the hectic summer of fights and fights has had the experts guessing as much as the world's middleweight championship bout here tomorrow night between Johnny Wilson, the title holder, and Harry Greb, that great, little piece of Pittsburgh fighting machinery.

As a rule, in doping and in betting on the outcome of a fight, the champion possesses the known quantities and what experting is to be done revolves around the prospects of the challenger.

In this unusual case it is just the opposite. Everyone knows the capabilities of Greb, and no one is sure of what Wilson will turn out to be when he is subjected to the real test that he is bound to face.

Sneaked Into Title.

Wilson sort of sneaked into the championship and he has sneaked more as the champion. He won the title from Mike O'Dowd in Boston on a decision and O'Dowd shouted to the world that he had been made the victim of larceny. Wilson gave him a return bout in New York and altho he failed to show any kind of championship ability, he did beat O'Dowd and in the poverty-stricken condition of the class it meant that he was the champion sure enough.

Wilson fought the rugged Bryan Downey in Cleveland and he was floored and saved by what the ringsiders maintained was a generous and considerate count on the part of the referee. The champion then took Downey back on for a no-decision thing in Jersey City and the exhibition was so terrible that Tex Rickard refused to pay Wilson his purse.

More troubles followed for the champion. When he tried to get his money, Rickard forced him to sign an agreement to fight Harry Greb. Wilson signed the agreement, got his money and then told Rickard to jump himself into the well-known lake.

The New York boxing commission then suspended Wilson for failing to defend his title and announced that Greb had become the champion thru a sort of default process.

Refused to Defend Crown.

Matters were further complicated when Greb proceeded to win, the American light-heavy-weight championship and decided that he didn't care to monkey around and defend what claim he had on the middleweight title.

Finally, after months of wrangling, the Wilson-Greb match was made, Wilson was reinstated by the boxing commission and they are going to have it out.

In winning the championship and in the few times that he stepped out of the set-up class to defend the title, Wilson showed himself to be so bad that he was dubbed "the cheese champion."

He follows the southpaw style of fighting with his right hand and his right foot extended, and it is a rather annoying style to beat. He is of rugged build and has enough power in his back shoulders and arms to be a good hitter, if he knows how to get the most of his possibilities.

Some supporters of Wilson have maintained that he is a good fighter and a worthy champion and that he would prove it the first time he faced a real, capable opponent. He will have that opportunity in his fight with Greb, but bettors are asking more than assurance from his friends that he is a real fighter.

Greb Is Hard to Beat.

Greb has fought so much and done so well that every follower of the ring knows that he is one of the hardest fighters in the business to beat—that is, everyone knows that he once was such a fighter.

It remains to be seen if he is as good as he was more than a year ago. Some doubts exist that he is. Perhaps he will not be hurt by making the weight, but it stands also that he will not be benefited by it. After seeing the exhibition that Johnny Dundee gave when he was supposed to have been weakened by making weight for Eugene Criqui, good judges will be very slow in banking too much on the weight factor as a handicap to Greb.

The Pittsburgh boy may not be in shape, however. He is a rather loose liver and he has been hitting the pace during the last year. There are too many examples to show that Greb is not the one in a million who can retain his effectiveness by not following the rules.

Two years ago, Greb would have been an overwhelming favorite to beat Wilson, and he will carry a lot of smart money with him tomorrow night, but the sentiment is not so much that Greb is so much superior to Wilson, as it is that Wilson is much inferior to Greb.

Wilson Not Timid Under Fire.

If the title passes, it probably will go the way of a decision. Greb is not a great puncher, and Wilson is rugged enough to stay up under some stiff pasting if he has a heart in him, and he has not been accused of being timid under fire.

To retain the championship, Wilson most certainly will have to win by a knockout. He is too awkward to win a decision from the more clever Greb, and his chances of getting over a knockout on an opponent that is swarming around the ring like a big bee [illegible] all the time are also very thin.

If Greb fights cleanly and does not resort to the foul tactics that usually spoil his work, he ought to win the decision by a wide margin.

If he is in shape!

LITTLE LESSONS IN Swimming

Posed by JOHNNY WEISSMULLER, the World's Champion speed swimmer. Sketch by Feg Murray.

How are the arms used in the crawl backstroke?

Answered by

BILL BACHRACH.

Illinois Athletic club; most famous and successful of all swimming coaches; has turned out champions such as Johnny Weissmuller, world's fastest swimmer; Norman Ross, Sibyl Bauer, Perry McGillivray, Harry Hebner, Arthur Raithel, Bob Skelton, and Mike McDermott.

Lying flat on your back in the water, extend your arms fully behind your head. Turn the back of the hands flat on the water. Start one arm, say the left, in a semi-circular sweep, not deep, around toward the hip. The palms are turned outward as the stroke gets under way, the hands slightly cupped. The arm is stiff at the elbow and the pull is steady and slow. Do not permit the hand to wabble, but keep its broadest surface against the water. As the left arm comes out at the hips, the right arm starts down on a similar motion. As the left arm is brought out of the water and carried to the original extended position the elbow is bent and the muscles relaxed.

ATHLETES GATHER AT CHICAGO FOR A. A. U.

New York and Chicago A. C. Favored to Win Team Events—Loren Murchison Arrives and Works Out.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Team competition between the New York A. C. and the Illinois A. C. probably will feature the national A. A. U. senior championships which open here tomorrow, followers of track and field athletics said today. The Newark A. C. and the Boston A. A. were given outside chances.

The Chicago A. A. team ruled favorite in the junior division, but it was pointed out that little was known of the visiting teams and an "outside" squad might capture the honors.

In the individual contests Loren Murchison, Newark A. C. sprinter, continued to attract the bulk of attention. The fleet 100 yard and 220 champion arrived in Chicago Wednesday and went immediately to Stagg Field for a workout. He was in top notch shape.

Final preparation of the games was going on today, with Charles A. Dean, chairman of the A. A. U. committee in charge. The schedule of contests follow:

Junior championships 1 p. m. Friday.
Senior championships 1 p. m. Saturday.
Decathlon 9 a. m. Monday.
Relay championships 1 p. m. Monday.
Women's events 1 p. m. Monday.

Luis Firpo Has Fifteen Days In Which To Anticipate a Victory

And That's Just What Pampas Bull Is Doing—Picking Up Some English and Knowledge of That Old Army Game—Craps.

By Henry L. Farrell.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 30.—For the fifteen days that are to elapse before he meets Jack Dempsey, Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine [illegible], will be taken within his rights in figuring that he is to be the next heavyweight champion and the big money power of pugilism.

Luis Angel is doing his figuring right now and he is serious about it. He has made no plans to return to his Argentine home after he meets Dempsey and on the contrary he has decided to remain for a long time in the United States.

Too Much Business Here.

"I have too much business to attend to before I can go home," the big South American said today. Questioned for details as to the extent of the transactions that he might be carrying now as unfinished business, Firpo let it be known thru one of his interpreters "the champion is always a busy man."

Firpo also has gone far enough into his future plans to decide he will not need a manager when he gets the title. As far as outward manifestations of nervousness are concerned, Firpo shows no more anxiety about the coming fight than his player piano which beats out music all day long without the inducement of a nickel.

The South American is adding some English to his vocabulary. He knows "good morning," "how are you," "nice day," "glad to see you," "how much," and several others. His pet phrase, however, according to his household staff is "see you tomorrow."

When the sheriff at Indianapolis told him he would be arrested if he [illegible] Joe Downey down, Firpo said "see you tomorrow" and the sheriff thought it was a fine joke, his interpreter said.

Firpo Has Stoney Heart.

Firpo called attention to the fact that he still had $2,500 coming to him from Indianapolis. During this part of the conversation the interpreter remarked that Firpo was the most cold hearted person he had ever seen.

Catching a glare from Firpo's side of the room, the interpreter covered up the break with "before the Willard fight he was the only one in the house who slept. He was not worried a bit and the others were all worked up." Firpo reads all the papers, or has them read to him and he has a most remarkable faculty of remembering the names and faces of the writers and he has a hobby of checking up to see what they write. He has a fine memory on all ring topics. He can tell the round and the kind of a punch that won every big fight for years back.

The South American thinks it is peculiar that he is criticized for his fights against Homer Smith and Joe Downey.

Plays the Old Army Game.

"Johnny Dundee is going to fight for a championship next week and he was beaten the other night in Philadelphia. I have not been beaten," he said.

Firpo has picked up several American games, including the grand old army game of craps. He has one black bone and one white one. He has all the form of a first class shot but he has not mastered the intricacies of snapping his huge fingers. When attention was called to a previous statement that Firpo did not gamble, his friends explained "that is not gambling—he always wins."

Many Favorites Out Of Western Tourney

EXMOOR COUNTRY CLUB, HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 30. — With many popular favorites eliminated, eight survivors started today in the third round of the women's western golf championship here.

The number of Chicago contenders—for a time holding the majority—was cut to two by the performance of invading women in the second round.

Miss Miram Burns, Kansas City, Missouri title holder sprang a big upset by defeating Mrs. Melvin Jones, Chicago, 2 and 1. The Missouri girl was forced to beat Mrs. Jones at the game she likes best—putting. She showed superb form.

Another surprise in the second round was the defeat of Miss Virginia Pep, St. Louis, by Miss Florence Halloran, Salt Lake City. Third round pairings:

Miss Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, Ohio vs. Miss Dorothy Highie, Chicago; Miss Florence Halloran, Salt Lake City vs. Mrs. F. C. Letts, Chicago; Miss Miram Burns, Kansas City vs. Miss Elsie Hilding, Grand Rapids; Mrs. Harley Higbie, Detroit vs. Mrs. L. Reinhardt, Dallas.

Do You Know?

What is Harry Greb's right name? Johnny Wilson's?—C. T.

Greb's right name is Berg and, spelled in reverse order, it is his ring name. Wilson's right name is Giovanna Panca.

Is there a race being arranged for the three-year old championship of the world?—B. J. R.

Such a race is being planned for October 20, to bring together Papyrus, winner of the English Derby; and the American three-year old accepted as the champion.

Where did George Uhle, the Cleveland pitcher, come from?—B. G.

Uhle was picked up off the sandlots in Cleveland.

LATEST MARKETS

CHICAGO, Aug. 29. Wheat exhibited a fairly underto[illegible] with corn leading in strength and oats in sympathy at the close on the Chicago board of trade today.

Trading in wheat was only and largely local. Buying was light as the result of reports that Greece would be in the market next week for 1,250,000 bushels.

Corn took its strength from continued [illegible] receipts and estimates that the old crop would be well cleaned up by November. Several crop reports were unfavorable.

Trading in oats was dull. Prices were about unchanged.

Provisions maintained a firm undertone due to a better hog market throughout the country and some investment report.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29. All grains on the [illegible] board of trade today opened unchanged to fractionally higher due to strength at Liverpool.

Gains at Liverpool were attributed to the unsettled political situation in Europe and Italy's ultimatum served on Greece.

Export business over night was light with [illegible] estimated at 700,000 bushels. About [illegible] were American hard wheat and the [illegible] was Canadian. Receipts, 599 cars.

Corn led in the early strength on account of the continued cool and wet weather in many sections, which has caused the crop to remain green and continue growing when it should be drying out and denting. Receipts were 170 cars.

Oats started unchanged to fractionally higher in sympathy with other grains. Receipts were 159 cars.

Provisions opened fractionally stronger.

Chicago Tribune Report.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—The rally in wheat was due largely to profit taking by previous sellers. Sentiment at the close was mixed with a disposition to sell on the sharp bulges. Strength in the cash market with all offerings of corn picked up by shippers and industries disturbed shorts. Sentiment for the present leans toward the selling side on the bulges.

The United States can readily use 3,100,000,000 bushels of corn this year according to a corn specialist as feeding of livestock has and will continue heavy. Rains in the leading corn belt states are keeping the crop green and growing when it should be drying up and maturing.

Cash interests were rather free buyers of September oats at times. The deferred months called more on short covering that investment buying.

Sales of wheat for export yesterday approached 250,000 bushels. There were also moderate [illegible]. Chicago sold 70,000 bu. hold hard winters for export. New York reported [illegible] of rye for export and 50,000 barrels of soft winter wheat flour for export. The price was about $1 per bushel under Canadian straights. Japan was said to have bought a cargo of Canadian wheat and China to have bought flour on the Pacific coast. Lamson.

Journal of Commerce Report.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. Sentiment in wheat is more mixed. The duration of the deliveries on September contracts is expected to furnish an indication of the future trend of the future trend of the market.

Possibility of a settlement of the trouble between Germany and France did much to allay bearish sentiment in wheat. While it is generally believed speculative interest in September corn is fairly well evened up the elimination of shorts is not bringing about the weak situation that was expected for the reason that stocks at distributing centers are small while the movement from the interior is scarcely equal to the demand for consumptive interest. Lamson.

Grain Market Opinions.

Bartlett-Frazier & Co.: Any further upturn is likely to encounter renewed selling pressure.

Clement Curtis & Co.: Liquidation apparently ran its course early in yesterday's market.

E. Lowitz & Co.: We do not believe bulges will hold.

Logan & Bryan: We favor a trading position.

Thomson McKinnon: The tendency looks steadily downward.

Chinenn Grain Co.: We look for lower prices.

Stein Alstrin: Some further recovery may be experienced.

Harris Winthrop & Co.: The export demand remains disappointing.

Hulburd Warren & Chandler: We look for further decline before purchases are in order.—Lamson.

Simpson says: The disposition of the local crowd is to sell on the advances but the action of the market yesterday showed that the load put upon it has been pretty well digested. With a continuance of investment buying I look for a further upward trend. The corn gets easily oversold. On the breaks sufficient buying develops and brings good reactions.—Lamson.

Omaha Livestock Market.

OMAHA, Aug. 30. — Cattle—Receipts, 3,300. Tone of the trade was rather slow on corn-fed cattle again today and prices ranged from steady to 10@15c lower; top was $12.40. Best steers and yearlings are still stronger than a week ago, but unfinished yearlings and plain warmed-up heavy cattle are as much as 25c lower for the week. Grass cows and heifers were strong today at the week's 25@50c advance. Stockers and feeders were about steady today and are strong to if anything a little higher on the week.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,000. There was not much activity in the hog market today. Prices were mostly steady with Wednesday. The bulk of offerings moved at $7.40@8.55, with a top of $8.90.

Sheep—Receipts, 6,500. No change of importance took place in the killer and feeder lamb market this morning, prices being about steady with Wednesday. Fat lambs moved largely at $12.85@13.10, with feeders at $12.25@12.25. Sheep were about steady.

OMAHA, Aug. 30. — Cattle—Receipts, 2,300; market, steady to 15c lower; yearlings, $8.00@12.25; steers, $9.25@12.55; cows and heifers, $2.25@6.75; stockers and feeders, $3.00@10.00; calves, $4.00@9.50; bulls and stags, $3.25@4.00; western rangers, $4.00@8.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,000; market, steady; bulk, $7.40@8.85; top, $8.90.

Sheep—Receipts, 6,500; market, steady; yearlings, $9.00@10.75; wethers, $5.50@8.75; lambs, $12.00@13.10; ewes, $4.00@7.25.

East St. Louis Livestock Market.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Aug. 30.—Cattle—Receipts, 4,500; market, slow; native beef steers, $9.75@10.90; yearlings and heifers, $10 up; cows, $5.25 up; canners and cutters, $2.25 up; calves, $11; stockers and feeders, $4.50 up.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,000; market, steady; heavyweights, $8.25@9.15; medium, $8.90@9.50; lightweights, $8.75@9.60; light lights, $8.25@9.60; packing sows, $7.00@7.60; pigs, $7.25@9.25; bulk of sales, $9.10@9.50.

Sheep—Receipts, 2,500; market, steady; ewes, $4.00@8.00; canners and cutters, $1.00@4.00; wool lambs, $10.75@12.75.

New York Liberty Bonds.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—U. S. liberty bonds were quoted here today as follows: 3½'s, 100; first 4¼'s, 98.12; second 4¼'s, 98.10; third 4¼'s, 98.28; fourth 4¼'s, 98.10; new 4¼'s, 99.26.

Signor on Stocks.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—There was a noticeable broadening of the stock market yesterday but the gains were only fractional ones in most cases instead of full points and distribution seemed to be taking place. American Can was one of the leaders in activity as usual, but it was pointed out that the stock failed for the first time during many days to register an advance. The general list of stocks has advanced from 5 to 15 points during the month of August and therefore is now entitled to a season of profits taking and recession.—Lamson.

Stock Market Opinions.

Post & Flagg: Stocks have shown a handsome recovery this month.

Housman & Co.: Seems to us the short interest in the Oils is beginning to get top-heavy.

Clark Childs & Co.: Once the short interest in the oils starts to cover some very substantial advances should be made in htat group.

Wollman & Co.: Look for further short covering and increased buying for long account.

Broadan Wall: Despite much profit taking yesterday the stock market maintained a strong understone. Considerable of the selling by tjose who had purchased shares when they were much lower. It is expected that the general list will develop a reactionary tendency the rest of the week. There has been steady absorption of odd-lots which have been taken out of street, thus reducing the floating supply of shares. The action of oil shares lends color to the statements made recently by big people that the peak in California production has been reached. The transportation shares look attractive, but absence of leadership by a populard hig-grade issue is actingas a deterent.—Lamson.

added a number of constructive developments in the domestic situation.

Crude oil production for the week ending August 25 showed a decrease. While slight, it was looked on as one of the many straws pointing to the approach of better times for the oil industry.

Governor Pinchot's terms for averting an anthracite strike were considered likely to prove effective and as a result of all these favorable influences stocks showed a buoyant tone in the early dealings.

Steel, common, maintained its leadership of the market, reaching a new high on the movement at 93¾.

If Not Wheat, What?

Outlook: If the increase of the supply of wheat in other countries and the reduction in the demand from other countries for American wheat are going to put the United States out of business as a wheat exporting nation, the agriculture of a large section of the United States must be drastically reorganized.

The sermon of diversification, so long preached to the cotton grower, must be carried to the northwest. Other crops must be found to rotate with wheat over those great reaches of the plains where wheat has long ruled as despot. But what are those other crops to be? It is more difficult to find an answer to that than to find substitutes for the cotton crop. Already in the southern portion of the wheat belt, in Oklahoma and Texas, much wheat land has already gone back to cotton. But for the northern end of the belt, what? This is certainly one of the biggest questions with which American agronomists and economists will have to grapple during the next three years.

There is another remedy for which some publicity has been obtained—the remedy of an artificial stimulation of a demand for wheat in America. Not only bakers and millers, but farmers, are hoping to profit by the slogan, "Eat more bread." But the special committee of economists brought together by Mr. Wallace believes that the home demand for what has been at the maximum during the past year, and that the farmer cannot expect any increase at home to make up for the loss in foreign demand. No governmental fixing of prices could possibly affect those natural laws of demand and supply, nor could a senate full of Magnus Johnsons control those laws. What ill advised legislation may do is to retard the remedial operation of those natural laws, and therefore increase the hardships of those who are seeking relief.

The one really hopeful factor in the eyes of the economists brought together by Secretary Wallace is the migration of the agricultural population to the cities, which recently has been much accelerated. "This movement will in the long run," says the committee, "add to the urban demand for foodstuffs and will eventually lessen the supply of farm produce, thus tending to establish a more normal relationship between agricultural and other prices."

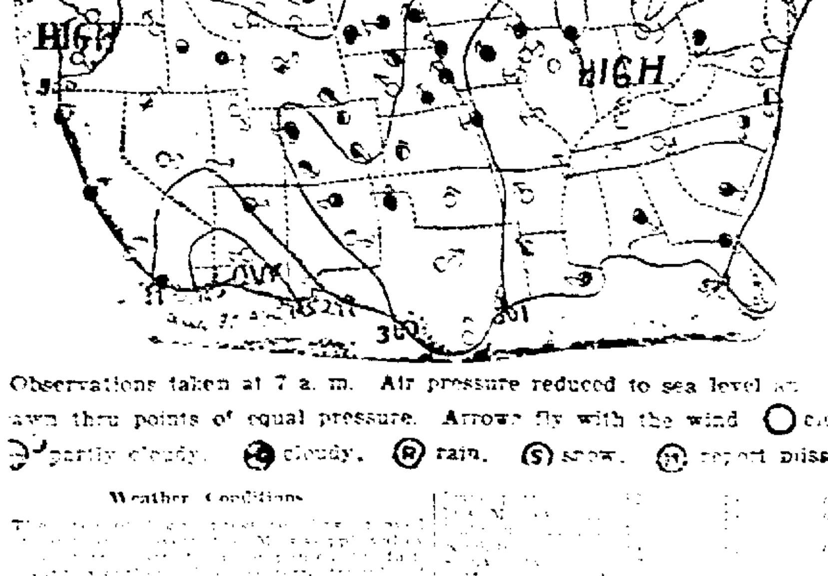

Thus a movement which for a generation has been deplored by many as tending to the decay of the country is now hailed as the saving force in restoring the country to a stable basis.

What Is the Matter?

"What," asks Edward S. Martin in Harper's, "at the bottom is the matter with this world? The more one reads about it, the less one knows. It is not going right; it is going ominously wrong. At the bottom, what is the great ailment? Is it industrialism—the overproduction of commodities with resulting overpopulation in the industrialized countries and competitive struggles to sell what is not needed in order to feed increasing numbers of workers, and thereby provide for a still greater production of unnecessary commodities. Is that what ails our world? Is it that human beings have ceased to be reckoned with as souls, and come to be thought of primarily as makers, buyers and consumers of objects? There is an argument for that view, but acceptance of it invites a mighty gloomy prospect of dismantled factories, decaying trade, starving populations and general ruin. If it is the industrial civilization that has played hob with Europe, what will it do to the United States? If it is a disease, it is one with which we are thoroly infected, and if it is mortal, we might as well contemplate our finish. We can, of course, rub along for a time, because our country is so favorably located and has still so much room in it, but the malady, if fatal, will fetch us in the end. Meanwhile we have a choice of two courses: To give up the industrial civilization and cease to invent and use machines and to inquire and experiment and try to simplify and expedite life, or to go on with our industrial civilization over the top, and try to grow big enough to handle it and ride in it, instead of letting it ride over us."

New England Homestead: The state is bidding for men at 55 cents an hour and calling the boys and young men from the rural sections. My faith in what our New England soils would produce was never as strong as today, but where are the men who will turn the trick?

Let Us Pay Your Life Insurance Premiums

You say your Life Insurance premiums total a given sum and dividing the burden into twelve monthly payments doesn't make it any lighter in the long run—so why should you enter into one of our Eltelic contracts.

Now, it is true that 12 times $10 equals $120. There is no escape from the mathematical truth that the whole equals the sum of its parts. Nevertheless, it really is easier to pay $10 each month than $120 once a year—and as a matter of fact, with interest at 5 per cent, it is $2.75 cheaper.

Suppose you have $120 of Life Insurance premiums to pay today, and a similar amount August 30, 1924, and the years following: The $120 you pay today will be worth $125 a year from now at 5 per cent.

Suppose you have signed one of our Eltelic contracts and been today paying us $10 per month to meet the premium falling due a year from now. At the end of that time you will have accumulated $123.25 to pay the $120 premium. Not only has it been easier for you to meet the $10 each month, but your premium money has earned you $3.25 at 5 per cent on daily balances.

When you pay your premium in a lump sum a whole year in advance you are paying a potential $126.00; when you pay it on $10 monthly payments, beginning a year ahead, you are paying a potential $123.25. Hence, it is easier and cheaper to pay monthly under our Eltelic contract.

Let us mail you a copy of the Eltelic contract. You incur no obligation by asking for it.

PLAN SPEEDY CABLE.

NEW YORK. (By Mail)—A new cable, which will have a speed of 600 letters a minute in both directions, is to be laid between the United States and Europe. It will be from New York to Nova Scotia, to the Azores where it will connect with a cable already running to England. Its capacity will be twice that of any cable now in service.

ACREAGE FOR SALE. 81

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

We consider this one of the best MONEY MAKING propositions in the state, forty acres three and one-half miles from Lincoln all in bearing fruit, sixteen acres of grapes, four hundred cherry trees, four hundred and fifty plum trees, four acres in apples, one-half acre of currants, three-quarter acres of strawberries, good house and barn; this place has paid over one hundred dollars per acre for the past three years and this can be increased considerably by using a portion for poultry and truck crops; this place will net over 20 per cent on the investment and will be sold cheap.

LANDS AND FARMS FOR SALE 85

HERE IT IS.
Just the farm you have been looking for, just the right number of acres in cultivation, in orchard, in pasture, and in feed lots—

FARM OF 160 ACRES
40 acres in blue grass and timber pasture, fenced sheep tight.
10 acres in lots and orchard.
110 acres in cultivation.
Farm lays fine, good black soil, no rock, no sand, no burrs—just 3-4 miles from Cortland, Gage county, Neb., 22 miles from Lincoln, takes 35 minutes to drive to the state capitol. Improvements consist of a large 8 room house with furnace and a small 4 room house, a garage and blacksmith shop, a granary, a machine shop, 2 corn cribs, hen house, a large horse barn with room for 30 tons of hay, a large cattle barn with room for 60 tons of hay, also 2 large silos with track and ensilage carrier.
This place has enough timber on it to furnish wood and posts and is one of the best combined stock and grain farms in eastern Nebraska.
The owner will take in a good residence or business property in Lincoln on this fine farm or will sell on easy terms, might consider western land as first payment.
Priced to sell at $200 per acre.
We have a large list of houses in Lincoln, and also some good merchandise stocks for sale and exchange. When you come to the state fair, make our office your headquarters, whether you want anything in our line or just want to talk over the weather, we'll be glad to see you.
If you want to buy or sell anything, call and see us.

Buying Ancestors.

It is told that an impecunious nobleman saw a portrait in a London shop window in which he was interested. He went in and ascertained that the price was twelve pounds and ten shillings.

"I'll give you ten pounds," he said to the shopkeeper, but the price was refused and there was no sale made.

Some time later the noble was dining in the magnificent new London house of a business man of the type called self-made. He noticed a familiar portrait on the wall.

"Ah," said the host, observing his guest's interests in the painting, "That is the portrait of an ancestor of mine!"

"Indeed!" said the peer. "Then we must be related," he continued with perfect gravity. "He was within fifty shillings of being an ancestor of mine!"—Everybody's Magazine.

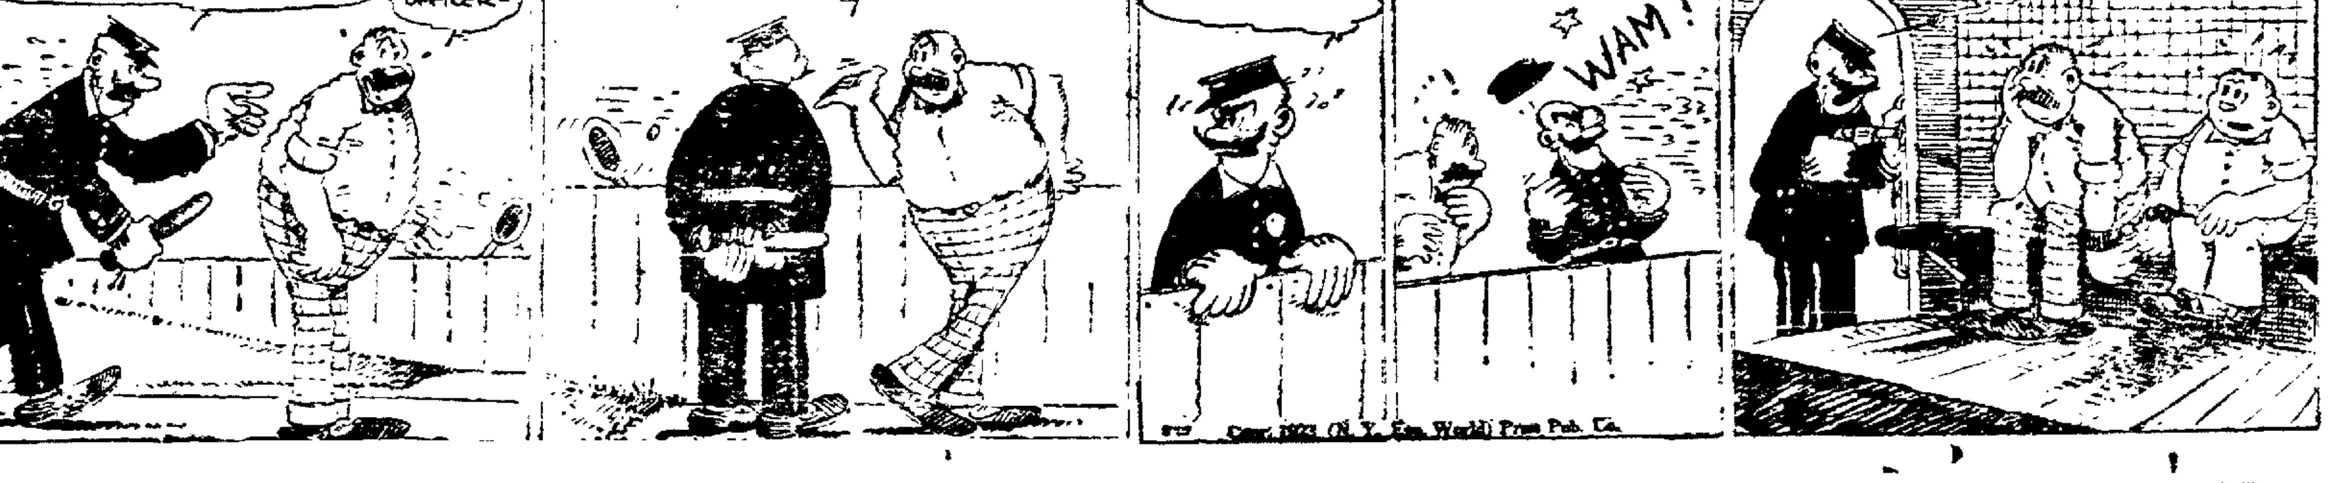

An explosion of oil in the Riverside plant of the National Tube company caused the death of four men.

MEN AND THINGS.

Kenneth L. Roberts, who is a keen investigator who got his ability to probe and to write thru training as a reporter, has been looking into the fascisti movement in Italy. He says that there has been an enormous amount of exalted conversation directed to informing the world that it is the essence of spirituality, the embodiment of idealism, the spirit of youth, and the like, when it is nothing more than the application of common sense to the business of government. The taxes grew so heavy thru the subservience of the politicians to the demands of groups that the government do this and do that, that they rose up, kicked things over and kicked the politicians out.

"The Place of Emotionalism in Christianity" was the theme of one of the graduating essays at Union Theological college the other day. We would like to have heard it. There are a good many persons who claim that the past growth of the church is clearly traceable to the additions to membership resulting from revivals, and we doubt not that they could prove their case. What we had in mind was a protest against the notion that loud singing and long praying are necessary emotional processes to keep people loyal to their faith. Conversion is a process of the soul, and to be real it must be deep-rooted.

It is not until misfortune brings one into personal touch with the modern and up-to-date hospital that an idea is secured of the wonderful thoroness with which diagnoses may now be made. One of the latest inventions has to do with pictures of the heart taken with such great accuracy that no clinical test is necessary. The X-ray pictures are not as satisfactory to the laymen as they appear to be to the doctors, whose knowledge of anatomy enables them to read the dim outlines therein with scarcely a mistake. These things add to the cost of treatment, but they substitute knowledge for guesswork which must always be a part of the old system of diagnosis.

County agents carry on some very interesting experiments. Nicotine dusts are being tried in a demonstrational way for the control of the plant louse and cucumber beetle. This work is being carried on with the university to determine the nicotine strengths necessary to kill these pests. Nicotine sulphate is used in a filler carrier, the 5 and 10 per cent strengths being used, the former for lice and the latter for beetles. One trial was made on plant lice when the temperature was about 55 degrees. This was entirely too cold for this volatile dust to be efficient, yet after one blast of dust the lice dropped off at a rapid rate. Practically all lice that were struck with this dust seemed to die in a few minutes.

The bee and the ant have long been utilized as object lessons for the slothful of mankind. Their attention to business and their industry have been dinned into our ears for centuries so that we know of no other synonyms for those virtues. Lately the scientists have been getting a line of the bee. They find his industry is a pure illusion, due to the number of bees around a hive door. He makes only five or six trips a day, and rests for half an hour after each trip. If we took a half hour rest after each paragraph we wrote nobody would be pointing to us as a model of industry. The ant is worth a paragraph by himself, but if you wish to ascertain how big a bluffer he is as a worker, sit down on the back walk and follow one of them with your eye for a few minutes.

A big life insurance company executive, talking to the underwriters at Omaha the other day, made the point that the people of America are paying more each year for luxuries than they are for life insurance. We do not doubt it. But before we say that it is just like us to run after the guady things and neglect the substantial, why not investigate as to why it is? The market for luxuries has been largely created by judicious and persistent advertising. Some of the more successful insurance companies have been liberal advertisers, but the idea still holds that it is not ethical or that because direct returns from advertising life insurance are difficult to trace it is not a good investment. But there are the facts.

SHE MADE OUT.

A New York broker whose wife was wintering at Palm Beach received a wire saying: "Broke; landlord duns daily. Send check." The broker, thinking to inculcate a lesson in economy, wired back: "Very short; check next week. Thousand kisses." In a day or two he received another: "Never mind check. Gave landlord your kisses."

BE MARTIN

These must be dull, uneventful days fer th' feller that looks like Bryan. Manager Gabe Craw, o' Melodeon Hall talks some o' puttin' on a gigantic revival o' "Th' Two Orphans," usin' German marks fer snow.

CANADIAN CITIES

BY WALTER WELLMAN

We have omitted the first and third letters from each of the eight words of four letters each. You are to print the names of two Canadian cities in the missing columns, and complete the eight words. What are the cities?

Answer to yesterday's puzzle: MOKAN, HOLKE, BEHAN and LEACH.

JOHN SIDDALL.

He walked out to the road's end of his life,
And knowing, long before, he had to die,
Yet held his way amid the toil and strife
As if no shadow lay across the sky.
Turning in time, before death's shining knife,
To wave a careless and a last goodby.

There are so many things that one might say;
Brave words to fit the spirit of a friend,
And yet what greater tribute can one pay
Beyond the simple truth the records send?
He walked with death thru many a bitter day,
Nor flinched for one brief second to the end.

Here is the final cup then to a heart
That knew no terror as the dark drew near,
The last deep drifts of midnight, far apart
From morning sunlight, when the dawn broke clear,
But at death's final signal for the start
Left for the trackless shadows without fear.
